Two Plane Crashes Kill 33

31 Die Near Baltimore, 2 At Charleston, W.Va

Constellation Plunges Over Bank, Burns

39 Miraculously Survive Kanawha Airport Accident

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Capital Airlines four-engined Constellation, landing at Kanawha Airport late Tuesday, plunged over a 200-foot embankment near the end of the runway and burst into flames. Two persons were killed and 13 injured.

The plane, with five crew members and 36 passengers aboard, apparently skidded while making a turn on the runway, wet from a light rain. It fell tail first over the embankment and burst into flames at the bottom.

The two bodies were recovered several hours after the accident. They were not immediately identified but crash truck personnel said one victim—a microphone still in his hand—apparently was the flight engineer.

Stewardess Is Heroine

The injured were taken to two Charleston hospitals. Among them were Richard Ohm, identified as the pilot, and copilot Charles Spoth. Both suffered burns.

A stewardess was described as the heroine of the crash.

"I didn't know what was happening," Alfred Newlon, a passenger from Lundale, W. Va., said. "All at once the plane was on its side, or upside down, I don't know which. Then it went tail first over the hill."

Newlon said the big ship burst into flames as it settled against the hillside. He was close to the emergency door but couldn't get it open.

The stewardess, Newlon said, opened the door and pushed him and other passengers through it.

Thrown Length Of Cabin

Bert Rautine of Orlando, Fla., another passenger, said he also escaped after the stewardess forced open the emergency door. Rautine said he was thrown against the seat in front of him and hurtled the length of the cabin.

Surviving passengers agreed that—all things considered—it was reasonably calm inside the cabin at the realization of the emergency.

"A couple of guys climbed over us to get to the emergency door," passenger Ralph Jordon of Switzer, W. Va., said, "but after that everybody seemed to be reasonably calm."

33 Lose Lives As Disaster Strikes Two Capital Airliners

Mid-Air Blast Rips Viscount During Storm

Wreckage, Bodies Scattered Over Maryland Farm

BALTIMORE (AP) — A big Capital Airlines New York-to-Atlanta Viscount plane with 27 passengers and a crew of four exploded in flight late Tuesday about 15 miles east of Baltimore. Twenty-nine bodies were recovered within two hours from the scattered debris.

And at Charleston, W. Va., about 450 miles to the west, another Capital Airlines four-engined plane from upper New York State and Pittsburgh also bound for Atlanta crashed while attempting to land. Two bodies were recovered from the wreckage and at least 13 were hospitalized. There had been a light rain, and the runway was wet.

The plane which exploded near Baltimore was flying through a thundersquall. Fred Hamlin, an official at the Martin Co., near where the accident took place, said first indications were that the plane was struck by lightning, then exploded.

CAB Investigating

The Civil Aeronautics Board said it has no record of any airliner ever having been exploded by lightning. Lightning has frequently hit planes, the CAB said, but has caused only slight damage since the electrical charge is not grounded when a plane is in flight.

The CAB sent a team of investigators to the scene of the Baltimore crash. First reports were that the plane was apparently flying through extremely turbulent air when it came apart.

Witnesses at the scene said there couldn't have been any survivors.

The accidents occurred within 50 minutes. The Charleston crash was at 4:30 p.m. The plane exploded near Baltimore at 5:18 p.m.

Juanita Bevans was fixing dinner for her husband and three young children when she heard an explosion. She saw a ball of flame in the air and watched the wreckage come down.

One piece of the plane fell near the Bevans' home. There was one body in front and three in back of the house.

Mrs. Bevans' husband, Walter, went outside and had her call an ambulance. He said the bodies were badly mangled.

Bodies Debris Scattered

Two Baltimore County patrolmen in the area said they heard an explosion above the overcast clouds and saw two balls of fire fall.

Most of the bodies and plane debris was scattered over the farm of Roy Norris, 53, who described a scene of "bodies with arms off, legs off, all over the place. It's a hell of a mess."

The area of the scattered wreckage is flat, partly wooded, partly farmland, and clusters of houses, bordering on inlets from the reaches of the upper Chesapeake Bay.

State police estimated the wreckage was strewn over an area 1½ miles long. The four engines all fell within a 100-yard circle. The propeller on one was missing.

One of the engines dug a hole three-to-five-feet deep in the wet earth but all were visible. The largest pieces of wreckage was the badly charred left wing.

Engines Near PRR Main Line

The largest group of bodies, about a dozen, was found in freshly plowed field along Eastern avenue and the Pennsylvania Railroad's main line.

Pennsy trains were proceeding at reduced speed through the area.

The plane's engines were within 200 yards of the railroad tracks but neither wreckage nor bodies could be seen from passing trains.

One of the witnesses, Charles Hopewood of Oliver Beach, said he heard "two quick explosions—it sounded more like a rumble. It (the plane) just disintegrated in the air.

Oscar Bennett said he heard two explosions in the air, and saw one piece of wreckage blazing as it fell.

"I could see two other pieces," he said. "Black smoke was coming from them."

All four engines dropped in a sand pit at a sand and gravel company.

N.C. Governor Orders Guard To Henderson

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—National Guardsmen were ordered into Henderson Tuesday to clamp down on strike violence at the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills.

A Textile Workers Union of America official here immediately charged that the Guard was being sent in "to help the unreasonable management to operate his cotton mills, and provide strikebreakers free access to the plants."

Henderson Mayor Carroll Singleton asked for the Guard Monday night when workers were pelted with stones and their automobiles fired upon as they left the two plants. An empty nursery building at the north plant was torn apart early Tuesday by a dynamite blast. No one was hurt.

Gov. Luther Hodges, who pulled the State Highway Patrol out of Henderson last week with the warning that the Guard might have to replace them, conferred with state law enforcement officers and Henderson officials.

Then he issued the order for the Guard, declaring "this complete disregard on the part of strikers and others to our appeal leaves us with no alternative." He said it does not mean martial law, however.

Julius Frye of Greensboro, international TWUA representative, asserted that "it already was predetermined" that the Guard would be sent in. "The slightest pretext would have been used to do so.

"I was on both picket lines and I saw none of the violence that was reported. I know of no emergency that requires the presence of the Guard. The dynamitings are the business of detectives to investigate."

The strike began Nov. 17 when about 1,200 workers struck for a new contract. Chief issue then was renewal of an arbitration clause, whereby disputes had been decided by a third party. But issues multiplied and the situation became worse after a supposed strike settlement fell apart in April.

Part Of Twining's Lung Is Removed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Surgeons removed the upper lobe of the left lung of Gen. Nathan F. Twining Tuesday during an exploratory chest operation at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The Defense Department said specimens of the lung tissue were sent to the hospital's laboratory for examination.

It said Twining, the 61-year-old chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, underwent the operation Tuesday morning. It described his post-operative condition as "very satisfactory."

The surgery was undertaken to determine the cause of suspicious findings that showed up in a recent chest X-ray examination.

Britain Plans Earth Satellites

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced Tuesday it intends to enter the space age by launching its own earth satellites.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons that scientists had been given the go-ahead.

The rocket that will carry the first one aloft to join the U. S. and Soviet satellites has not yet been chosen, Macmillan said.

He expressed hope that a British rocket could do the job. The implication in his statement was that if this was not possible the British may try to borrow a rocket from the Americans.

A team of British experts will travel to Washington shortly to discuss possible U. S.-British cooperation, Macmillan said.

The British decision was welcomed in Washington. The State Department expressed hope there would be many opportunities for the United States to cooperate as the British program develops, "thereby widening the area of international cooperation in the peaceful use of outer space."

British scientists are trying to adapt military rockets, now being developed here, as satellite carriers. The main hope lies in the Bluestreak, a missile being built to cover a range of 2,500 miles.

Soviet Again Stalls Parley

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers conference deadlocked Tuesday over a Soviet proposal to seat Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia as full participants.

The ministers wrangled inconclusively for more than an hour, then adjourned with the dispute unsettled. The Soviets announced they intend to bring up the issue again Wednesday.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko advanced the new proposition for enlarging the conference in the wake of his quick defeat Monday at the opening session on a demand for admittance of Communist East Germany as a full negotiator.

Gromyko insisted that Poland and Czechoslovakia must be included as a tribute to their sufferings from German aggression.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his British and French colleagues balked. They urged that the Big Four get on with the Berlin and German issues. They suggested that Poles and Czechs might be called in later during dicussion of points of specific interest to them.

"The meeting ended with the matter still up in the air," U. S. Asst. Secretary of State Andrew Berding announced later.

The argument could tie up the conference in a lengthy procedural wrangle. But Berding said "We hope the problem is closed."

On the other hand Gromyko's deputy, Valerian Zorin, told newsmen: "The Soviet Union will insist on a positive decision on this problem. We consider that the success of the whole conference will to a large extent depend on the decision."

There was no sign that Herter, Lloyd and Couve de Murville would relent.

In his first speech at the Big Four conference, the lanky American statesman urged the conference to get on with the discussions on Germany and Berlin.

Demo Senators Hold Up Action On Appointments Of Dillon, Reid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators held up action on two diplomatic appointments Tuesday in a caustic attack on the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy and its alleged suppression of information.

Several Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee also got to squabbling among themselves at a hearing on the nominations of C. Douglas Dillon to be chief assistant to the secretary of state, and Ogden R. Reid to be ambassador to Israel.

Dillon and Reid thus became the latest Eisenhower appointees to get into hot water with Senate Democrats, although it appeared that Dillon at least was in no great danger of failing confirmation.

One battle ended recently with the resignation of Clare Boothe Luce just after she was confirmed as ambassador to Brazil.

Lewis L. Strauss has been on the griddle before the Senate Commerce Committee where several key Democrats are fighting his nomination as secretary of commerce. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he told President Eisenhower he is confident Strauss will be confirmed.

There had been advance indications that the Foreign Relations Committee planned to take a close look at the diplomatic qualifications of Reid, a former president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

But the raking Dillon got was a surprise, because he always has rated highly among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) said he would not vote to confirm Dillon because of what he termed foolhardy administration of foreign aid—Dillon's current responsibility. Long said it benefited thieves, racketeers and gangsters overseas.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) joined in, saying the State Department has no justification for keeping secret the country-by-country breakdown of military aid to Latin-American and other foreign nations.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) suggested that Church postpone some of his questioning until a closed-door hearing on foreign aid funds.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) quickly protested: "I'm going to object to interference with any senator who wants to ask questions."

Fulbright then said resignedly he had no way of stopping any senator from talking. "I am not foolish enough to try," Fulbright said.

Dillon testified that the amount of secret information is being reduced gradually, and added he favors giving all possible information to the public.

Turning to the Reid nomination, Fulbright said it is up to him to show he is qualified for the post in Israel. The senator said "amateur diplomats" are not needed these days.

Astaire Wants To Return Emmy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dancing star Fred Astaire Tuesday asked the Television Academy to take back the controversial "best actor" Emmy voted him by members.

Astaire, in his plea to the academy, said he feels the academy members misunderstood the title of his performance category. The award was one of nine he received last Wednesday night for his 1958 show, "An Evening With Fred Astaire."

The controversy followed Astaire's selection, and followed a blast by television star Ed Sullivan that the award was unfair and even "ridiculous" because the dancer's popularity had beclouded members in choosing between a dancing - emcee performance and acting part in a play or story.

Jobless Drop Pleases Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big drop in the nation's total of unemployed workers brought expressions of gratification Tuesday from Republican leaders in Congress, and word that President Eisenhower is highly pleased.

After their weekly White House meeting with the President, the GOP leaders left no doubt that they feel the new employment figures will help them in trying to trim down Democratic spending proposals aimed at creating jobs.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the GOP House leader, put it this way to newsmen: "We are mighty happy now that we didn't push the panic button when some people were wanting us to."

Tenn. Convicts Give Up, Free Two Hostages

FORT PILLOW, Tenn. (AP)—After 14 hours of siege, convicts barricaded in a dormitory in the state prison farm here surrendered Tuesday. Two captive guards threatened with death were not hurt.

The end came suddenly, almost nonchalantly, after Keith Hampton, state commissioner of institutions, had ordered highway patrol forces at the scene to wait out the situation.

Nine men were removed from the some 130 convicts in the dormitory and moved to the maximum security prison at Nashville. They were described as the leaders.

Other than the transfer, Hampton said no other punishment was planned. The move puts the nine men behind concrete prison walls and steel bars, instead of dormitory life on this minimum security prison farm.

The two hostages—Jubie Voss, 49, and Hubert Neyman, 57—came out of the dormitory drawn but smiling.

"I believed they was going to give in all along," drawled Voss. "I could tell by how they talked."

The guards were trapped Monday night when the men staged an unexpected uprising, bashing out the lights and piling bunks and mattresses against the doors and windows to block possible tear gas projectiles.

The convicts demanded and got a conference with state officials on prison farm conditions. Hampton was ordered to the farm by Gov. Buford Ellington.

After the surrender, Hampton said he would return to the prison farm within the next few days to check the charges made by the convicts, which ranged from bad food to alleged brutality.

The convicts left in the littered dormitory after the surrender were immediately put to work getting the place back in shape.

Steel Contract Talks Recessed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Union and company negotiators seeking a new labor contract in the steel industry Tuesday recessed their meetings until Thursday without making any apparent progress.

The eight negotiators, four for the industry and four for the union, refused to comment on their meetings. Inasmuch as they had made a firm promise to keep the public fully informed of any progress their silence indicated that they made no progress.

The recess was called so the industry could study a proposal presented by the union Monday calling for reduction of the present 40 hour week to an average of 38 hours in order to reduce unemployment.

But the industry seemed to want time only to prepare arguments against the proposal, for a top industry spokesman told UPI that "the steel industry has one proposal and only one proposal to make to the union: 'A one-year contract extension.'"

Eddie Fisher, Liz Taylor Wed In Jewish Ceremony

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Eddie Fisher divorced Debbie Reynolds then married Elizabeth Taylor Tuesday in a dramatic climax to the movies' most sensational triangle romance.

The 15-minute wedding followed a 10-minute divorce hearing in which Fisher won a decree on undisclosed allegations of mental cruelty.

The screen's leading beauty and the handsome singer were united in an ancient Jewish ritual that included an exchange of rings.

"Behold, thou are consecrated unto me by means of this ring, according to the laws of Moses and Israel," they repeated before a small gathering of family and friends in the modern brick Temple Beth Sholom.

Outside, nearly 200 people, mostly housewives and children, milled in the 100-degree heat of this desert gambling resort for a peek at the famous couple. The synagogue is in a residential area.

The wedding came as the highlight of a headline-making romantic entanglement involving Fisher and the two screen beauties.

Fisher's marriage to Miss Reynolds, publicized as ideal, burst apart after he began dating Miss Taylor. Debbie at first blamed Liz for the split but, after obtaining a California divorce, agreed not to contest Eddie's Nevada decree, which enabled him to wed at once.

Miss Taylor arrived in a limousine 22 minutes after the scheduled 5 p.m. wedding hour. A mob clustered around her—oohing and ahing—as she walked into the synagogue.

Camera Fired 1,500 Miles In Thor Cone, Recovered

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A tiny camera was fired 1,500 miles over the Atlantic in the nose cone of a Thor ballistic missile Tuesday and was recovered from the depths 39 minutes later, informed sources said.

The Defense Department made no mention of the camera, but did announce later that a data capsule from the Thor was retrieved near Antigua Island off the British West Indies after a successful test flight.

It was learned that the camera was carried inside the capsule as one of the secondary objectives of the test.

The main mission was to check the intermediate range ballistic missile's reliability and accuracy on its 30th development flight as a war weapon. The missile also has been fired seven times on intercontinental range nose cone reentry tests and five times as the booster for satellite and space probes.

The camera was aboard to record the performance of the missile's nose cone. A special high speed film was used to compensate for the speed that reached as high as 10,000 m.p.h.

The Thor, which has been launched more times than any other U.S. ballistic missile, already has been spotted at operational launching sites in England as part of the NATO defense force.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A big Capital Airlines New York-to-Atlanta Viscount plane with 27 passengers and a crew of four exploded in flight late Tuesday about 15 miles east of Baltimore. Twenty-nine bodies were recovered within two hours from the scattered debris.

The argument could tie up the conference in a lengthy procedural wrangle. But Berding said "We hope the problem is closed."

On the other hand Gromyko's deputy, Valerian Zorin, told newsmen: "The Soviet Union will insist on a positive decision on this problem. We consider that the success of the whole conference will to a large extent depend on the decision."

There was no sign that Herter, Lloyd and Couve de Murville would relent.

In his first speech at the Big Four conference, the lanky American statesman urged the conference to get on with the discussions on Germany and Berlin.

Demo Senators Hold Up Action On Appointments Of Dillon, Reid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators held up action on two diplomatic appointments Tuesday in a caustic attack on the Eisenhower administration's foreign policy and its alleged suppression of information.

Several Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee also got to squabbling among themselves at a hearing on the nominations of C. Douglas Dillon to be chief assistant to the secretary of state, and Ogden R. Reid to be ambassador to Israel.

Dillon and Reid thus became the latest Eisenhower appointees to get into hot water with Senate Democrats, although it appeared that Dillon at least was in no great danger of failing confirmation.

One battle ended recently with the resignation of Clare Boothe Luce just after she was confirmed as ambassador to Brazil.

Lewis L. Strauss has been on the griddle before the Senate Commerce Committee where several key Democrats are fighting his nomination as secretary of commerce. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he told President Eisenhower he is confident Strauss will be confirmed.

There had been advance indications that the Foreign Relations Committee planned to take a close look at the diplomatic qualifications of Reid, a former president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

But the raking Dillon got was a surprise, because he always has rated highly among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) said he would not vote to confirm Dillon because of what he termed foolhardy administration of foreign aid—Dillon's current responsibility. Long said it benefited thieves, racketeers and gangsters overseas.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) joined in, saying the State Department has no justification for keeping secret the country-by-country breakdown of military aid to Latin-American and other foreign nations.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) suggested that Church postpone some of his questioning until a closed-door hearing on foreign aid funds.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) quickly protested: "I'm going to object to interference with any senator who wants to ask questions."

Fulbright then said resignedly he had no way of stopping any senator from talking. "I am not foolish enough to try," Fulbright said.

Dillon testified that the amount of secret information is being reduced gradually, and added he favors giving all possible information to the public.

Turning to the Reid nomination, Fulbright said it is up to him to show he is qualified for the post in Israel. The senator said "amateur diplomats" are not needed these days.

Astaire Wants To Return Emmy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dancing star Fred Astaire Tuesday asked the Television Academy to take back the controversial "best actor" Emmy voted him by members.

Astaire, in his plea to the academy, said he feels the academy members misunderstood the title of his performance category. The award was one of nine he received last Wednesday night for his 1958 show, "An Evening With Fred Astaire."

The controversy followed Astaire's selection, and followed a blast by television star Ed Sullivan that the award was unfair and even "ridiculous" because the dancer's popularity had beclouded members in choosing between a dancing - emcee performance and acting part in a play or story.

Jobless Drop Pleases Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big drop in the nation's total of unemployed workers brought expressions of gratification Tuesday from Republican leaders in Congress, and word that President Eisenhower is highly pleased.

After their weekly White House meeting with the President, the GOP leaders left no doubt that they feel the new employment figures will help them in trying to trim down Democratic spending proposals aimed at creating jobs.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the GOP House leader, put it this way to newsmen: "We are mighty happy now that we didn't push the panic button when some people were wanting us to."

Tenn. Convicts Give Up, Free Two Hostages

FORT PILLOW, Tenn. (AP)—After 14 hours of siege, convicts barricaded in a dormitory in the state prison farm here surrendered Tuesday. Two captive guards threatened with death were not hurt.

The end came suddenly, almost nonchalantly, after Keith Hampton, state commissioner of institutions, had ordered highway patrol forces at the scene to wait out the situation.

Nine men were removed from the some 130 convicts in the dormitory and moved to the maximum security prison at Nashville. They were described as the leaders.

Other than the transfer, Hampton said no other punishment was planned. The move puts the nine men behind concrete prison walls and steel bars, instead of dormitory life on this minimum security prison farm.

The two hostages—Jubie Voss, 49, and Hubert Neyman, 57—came out of the dormitory drawn but smiling.

"I believed they was going to give in all along," drawled Voss. "I could tell by how they talked."

The guards were trapped Monday night when the men staged an unexpected uprising, bashing out the lights and piling bunks and mattresses against the doors and windows to block possible tear gas projectiles.

The convicts demanded and got a conference with state officials on prison farm conditions. Hampton was ordered to the farm by Gov. Buford Ellington.

After the surrender, Hampton said he would return to the prison farm within the next few days to check the charges made by the convicts, which ranged from bad food to alleged brutality.

The convicts left in the littered dormitory after the surrender were immediately put to work getting the place back in shape.

Eddie Fisher, Liz Taylor Wed In Jewish Ceremony

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Eddie Fisher divorced Debbie Reynolds then married Elizabeth Taylor Tuesday in a dramatic climax to the movies' most sensational triangle romance.

The 15-minute wedding followed a 10-minute divorce hearing in which Fisher won a decree on undisclosed allegations of mental cruelty.

The screen's leading beauty and the handsome singer were united in an ancient Jewish ritual that included an exchange of rings.

"Behold, thou are consecrated unto me by means of this ring, according to the laws of Moses and Israel," they repeated before a small gathering of family and friends in the modern brick Temple Beth Sholom.

Outside, nearly 200 people, mostly housewives and children, milled in the 100-degree heat of this desert gambling resort for a peek at the famous couple. The synagogue is in a residential area.

The wedding came as the highlight of a headline-making romantic entanglement involving Fisher and the two screen beauties.

Fisher's marriage to Miss Reynolds, publicized as ideal, burst apart after he began dating Miss Taylor. Debbie at first blamed Liz for the split but, after obtaining a California divorce, agreed not to contest Eddie's Nevada decree, which enabled him to wed at once.

Miss Taylor arrived in a limousine 22 minutes after the scheduled 5 p.m. wedding hour. A mob clustered around her—oohing and ahing—as she walked into the synagogue.

Witness Tells Gov. Tawes Hepbron Seen With Carbo

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Prosecution witnesses testified Tuesday that Baltimore Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron had direct knowledge of unauthorized police wiretapping operations and also was seen in the company of Frankie Carbo, New York underworld figure.

Edgar G. Kirby, former racket squad sergeant dismissed from the force last February, told Gov. Tawes that he tailed Hepbron and Carbo from the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore in 1956 and saw them leave in an automobile.

As to wiretap operations, Kirby said the commissioner had personal knowledge of at least two illegal taps made after a 1956 ordinance required separate court orders for them. One was at the Club 408 on Baltimore Street and the other at a Greenmount Avenue address where a numbers raid was staged, Kirby said.

The former sergeant said he participated in both raids and knew the taps to have been illegal. He listed others which he thought to have been unauthorized and said Hepbron may have had knowledge of some of them.

The Baltimore City delegation to the Legislature is seeking to prove at a public hearing before the governor that Hepbron has condoned illegal wiretapping and has associated with persons with prison records.

Tawes has been urged to remove Hepbron from his six-year term which expires in 1961.

He placed the year as 1956 but said he did not know whether the new law requiring court orders had gone into effect.

Forrester, who has been suspended since a 1957 departmental investigation, will return to the stand as the hearing resumes at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday. He is the ninth witness among 15 scheduled to appear for the prosecution.

Retired Chief Inspector Fred L. Ford also is scheduled to testify Wednesday.

Huge, Atom-Powered Blimp Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A giant, nuclear-powered blimp with almost limitless cruising range was proposed Tuesday by Goodyear Aircraft Corp.

It would be the nation's first atom-powered flying machine and, according to Goodyear, could be aloft by 1963.

The proposed craft would be three times the size of the blimps now operated by the Navy — 540 feet long and displacing 4,250,000 million cubic feet.

R. W. Richardson, Goodyear vice president, announced at the annual meeting of the Aviation Writers Assn. here that his firm recently told the Navy about the possibilities of such an aircraft and its practical applications.

He said it could be used as a sentinel to warn against submarine and air attacks, as do Navy blimps now.

The blimp would travel about 90 miles an hour at altitudes of about 10,000 feet.

It would be made of a new rubberized fabric — dacron coated with synthetic rubber—and would be able to withstand radiation of up to 100 million roentgens. A fatal dose for a person is 500 roentgens.

Quarles Buried In Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald A. Quarles was buried in Arlington National Cemetery Tuesday with the last rites of church and state.

President Eisenhower stood by the grave side as the 64-year-old deputy secretary of defense was laid to rest and accorded a 19-gun salute. Quarles was accorded a burial in the National Cemetery, not because of his high government positions, but because of his service in France in World War I as an Army artillery captain.

Quarles died in his sleep last Friday morning of a heart ailment.

After serving as defense chief of research, secretary of the Air Force and the No. 2 civilian administrator at the Pentagon, Quarles had been widely expected to move up to the No. 1 spot in the defense establishment next fall. Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy has indicated he hopes to return to private life then.

Gen. Clay Hopes Summit Talk Can Avert Berlin War

BERLIN (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, postwar U. S. military governor of Germany, expressed hope Tuesday a summit meeting can avert the danger of nuclear war over Berlin.

Addressing a mass rally on the 10th anniversary of the end of the Soviet blockade of this isolated city, Clay warned that another Allied airlift would not be the answer to a new Communist clampdown on West Berlin.

"Soon the government chiefs of the three great Western powers will meet with the Russians, in order to take up the Berlin problem in connection with the greater European problem," Clay said.

"It is good that this meeting should take place. As long as tensions endanger peace, we must come together and explore every earthly possibility of doing away with such tensions.

"I cannot believe that another war will break out. The long-range aircraft of today and its atomic bomb and the rockets of tomorrow have such destructive power that no nation can expect to gain from any victory."

Clay spoke before 10,000 people gathered in Deutschland Halle to honor the 31 American and 40 British airmen who were killed in the 1948-49 airlift that cracked the 318-day blockade.

Lilly Gets West Va. Mental Health Post

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Gov. Underwood announced Tuesday the appointment of Dr. Richard J. Lilly as mental health director ending a controversy between the governor and Dr. Margaret T. Ross.

The hassle developed over Dr. Ross' refusal — until her sudden change of mind last Friday — to step aside so Underwood could make good an earlier commitment to name Lilly to the post.

Lilly was listed as a resident of Weston, where he has been serving as acting superintendent of Weston State Hospital, the state's largest mental institution.

Review Of Breeding Conviction Delayed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Tuesday postponed its review of the first-degree murder conviction of Clayton Edward Breeding.

Scheduled arguments in the case were delayed until Thursday when Deputy Atty. Gen. Stedman Prescott was late in returning from a conference of law officials in New Orleans.

Breeding was convicted by three Caroline County judges last October in the strangulation murder of Mrs. Ruth Ellen Cannon, a 19-year-old newlywed from Burrsville, Md.

She was beaten and strangled with a strip of cloth torn from her blouse. Her body was found in woods near her home last June.

Breeding, an ex-convict from Hickman, Del., was the object of an intensive three-week manhunt before he was captured in Newark, Del. He denied the killing and said he had never seen Mrs. Cannon.

Controversial Bills Awaiting Council Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council opens its 1959 term Wednesday with a number of controversial bills awaiting action, including reorganization of the top-level state employes and pay raises for state employes and teachers.

The council, between-sessions working arm of the General Assembly, will consider these bills between now and next February. It is charged with recommending a legislative program to the next legislative session.

The opening council session is scheduled to be a brief one limited to organization, appointment of committees and agreement on the year's agenda.

They include:

1. Proposed reorganization of the state's top-level judiciary, including addition of one judge to the five-man Court of Appeals and creation of a new, intermediate Court of Sspecial Appeals.
2. A rival plan which would limit appeals to the state's highest court in certain classes of cases.
3. Sweeping changes in Maryland's insanity laws, including a new definition of the legal test for criminal insanity.
4. Salary increases for state merit-system employes and for public school teachers. Both groups were denied requests for pay boosts at the last session.
5. Creation of a state scholarship system, which also failed to get through the last session of the legislature.
6. Creation of a State Milk Commission to regulate production, distribution and sale of milk and milk products.
7. A bonus for Maryland veterans, financed by a public lottery or beer tax.
8. A proposal prohibiting a large number of retail sales on Sunday.

Maryland Crops Badly In Need Of Soaking Rains

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Rain and plenty of it is needed to nurse along crops in Maryland and Delaware.

The lack of moisture is beginning to be felt especially in Southern Maryland and over the Delmar Peninsula, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

The service noted that vegetable and melon fields needed rain badly, as did tobacco beds, wheat, barley and other crops.

The Weather Bureau at Friendship International Airport near Baltimore reported that conditions are about equal to that of the drought of two years ago.

There has been a monthly deficiency in precipitation for more than eight months, the bureau noted. To date this year precipitation has totaled only 10.47 inches compared with 10.56 inches recorded by the end of April, 1957, a drought year.

Conditions aren't as bad as in 1955, however, when only 9.96 inches were recorded for the first four months.

The present dry spell began in Maryland last September when rainfall totaled only 1.27 inches. The normal is 3.46 inches.

The Weather Bureau said the last appreciable rainfall in the Baltimore area was one-third of an inch April 28.

In its weekly summary, the Crop Reporting Service said planting of lima beans, early snap beans, cucumbers, sweet corn, cantaloupes and watermelon was about finished on the southern half of the Eastern Shore. About 60 per cent of the tomato acreage also was down.

Virginia Forest Fire Losses Rise Sharply

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Virginia forest fires burned nearly 10,000 more acres the first four months of this year than in the same period last year, State Forester George W. Dean said Tuesday.

Dean said a total of 1,652 fires from Jan. 1 to May 1 this year burned 11,860 acres. Figures for the same period last year were 414 fires and 1,923 acres burned.

This year is "a much worse year than any of the last four," Deane said. He explained the source of trouble as "an accumulation of dry weather and heavy winds."

Friends' Deaths Ruled Murder And Suicide

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore County police Tuesday ruled that the death of two cattle dealers, who were lifelong friends, was murder and suicide.

Capt. E. F. Adams said Edward Devese, 69, apparently shot and killed William Wolf, 60, and then killed himself.

Adams said the motive had not been definitely established but believe it involved a business transaction.

Adams said Devese borrowed a 32 caliber pistol from a friend Sunday, loaded it and refused to return it although he knew little about guns.

Ocean City, Md., Has New Mayor

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — This resort town has a new mayor for the first time in 16 years.

Hugh Cropper Jr. has been elected by City Council to take over the office held by Daniel Trimper Jr., who has resigned to become a Worcester County Commissioner.

Cropper, veteran councilman, will serve until August 1960 when he must seek election.

Parents Flee

BERLIN (UPI) — A Communist newspaper disclosed Tuesday that the parents of an East German student fled to the West after their son was sentenced to seven and one-half years in prison for alleged political crimes.

The East Berlin newspaper, Berliner Zeitung, said the parents of Hanslutz Dalpke, 20, had gone to West Berlin. Dalpke was a member of a group of students in the East German city of Dresden charged with attempts to overthrow the Communist state last April.

Death, Then Burglars, Strike Baltimore Home

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thieves broke into the home of Mrs. Eleanor C. Garrison Monday night and took $9,700 in jewelry and savings bonds while she was at a funeral home making arrangements for burial of her husband.

Mrs. Garrison found the house had been ransacked when she returned home shortly before midnight.

Union Official Convicted Of 'Sugaring' Gas Tank

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Hugh Brown, 52-year-old international representative of the AFL-CIO Textile Workers of America, was convicted Tuesday of putting sugar in the gas tank of a car belonging to an official of a struck plant.

Magistrate Irving Einbinber fined Brown $200 and gave him a suspended 30-day sentence with the comment, "Labor unions are doing a grand job. It's the individual that gives them black eyes. Such conduct as this creates bad public opinion of labor."

Brown lives at Arlington, Va.

Paul Piccione, a supervisor at the Potomac Dye and Finishing Co., testified he caught Brown at the gas tank of his car on April 27, when the plant's union employes were on strike.

Piccione said Brown ran when he spotted him. He said he ran to the car and found the gas tank cap off and sugar in the neck of the tank.

Brown entered a plea of innocent but declined to testify.

The strike was settled last Sunday.

Controversial Bills Awaiting Council Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council opens its 1959 term Wednesday with a number of controversial bills awaiting action, including reorganization of the top-level state employes and pay raises for state employes and teachers.

The council, between-sessions working arm of the General Assembly, will consider these bills between now and next February. It is charged with recommending a legislative program to the next legislative session.

The opening council session is scheduled to be a brief one limited to organization, appointment of committees and agreement on the year's agenda.

They include:

1. Proposed reorganization of the state's top-level judiciary, including addition of one judge to the five-man Court of Appeals and creation of a new, intermediate Court of Sspecial Appeals.

2. A rival plan which would limit appeals to the state's highest court in certain classes of cases.

3. Sweeping changes in Maryland's insanity laws, including a new definition of the legal test for criminal insanity.

4. Salary increases for state merit-system employes and for public school teachers. Both groups were denied requests for pay boosts at the last session.

5. Creation of a state scholarship system, which also failed to get through the last session of the legislature.

6. Creation of a State Milk Commission to regulate production, distribution and sale of milk and milk products.

7. A bonus for Maryland veterans, financed by a public lottery or beer tax.

8. A proposal prohibiting a large number of retail sales on Sunday.

Maryland Crops Badly In Need Of Soaking Rains

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Rain and plenty of it is needed to nurse along crops in Maryland and Delaware.

The lack of moisture is beginning to be felt especially in Southern Maryland and over the Delmar Peninsula, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

The service noted that vegetable and melon fields needed rain badly, as did tobacco beds, wheat, barley and other crops.

The Weather Bureau at Friendship International Airport near Baltimore reported that conditions are about equal to that of the drought of two years ago.

There has been a monthly deficiency in precipitation for more than eight months, the bureau noted. To date this year precipitation has totaled only 10.47 inches compared with 10.56 inches recorded by the end of April, 1957, a drought year.

Conditions aren't as bad as in 1955, however, when only 9.96 inches were recorded for the first four months.

The present dry spell began in Maryland last September when rainfall totaled only 1.27 inches. The normal is 3.46 inches.

The Weather Bureau said the last appreciable rainfall in the Baltimore area was one-third of an inch April 28.

In its weekly summary, the Crop Reporting Service said planting of lima beans, early snap beans, cucumbers, sweet corn, cantaloupes and watermelon was about finished on the southern half of the Eastern Shore. About 60 per cent of the tomato acreage also was down.

Senate Sessions Often Like PTA Meetings--Chaos

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anyone who has attended PTA meetings can sympathize with the problem confronting the Senate.

PTA gatherings-at least, the ones I attend—often are dull and routine. Then you can hear, painfully clear, every dull and routine word.

But let someone slip in a hot issue, and everything flames into confusion. Someone, out of order, shouts about "Roberts Rules of Order." Private debates rage without anyone heeding the luckless presiding officer.

When the going gets rough, senators can be as noisy, and tie themselves in as many parliamentary knots, as ordinary mortals.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) thinks it's getting worse—and he doesn't like it.

"The chaos," he has told his colleagues, "is unbearable."

Several senators popped up to agree.

Sample comment, from Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn): "The lack of order made me ashamed."

Not a voice was raised in praise of chaos and confusion, although so much noise was made damning noise that the presiding officer, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), had to break in and say: "Let there be order in the Senate."

One of Stennis' suggestions should be easy to follow. So many senatorial assistants, committee aides and assorted experts flock to the floor during major debates it sometimes resembles a mob scene. So great is the confusion that, on a recent voice vote, some nonsenators are suspected of having voted.

Well, as Stennis said, this could be remedied easily. Keep out everyone who has no business on the floor.

But Stennis' other proposal--to hire a full-time, impartial presiding officer—might be harder for senators to take.

It's the constitutional duty of the vice president to preside. When he isn't there, which is often, senators take turns in the chair.

Stennis said 1. he agrees that in this modern world a vice president has more important chores than riding herd on the Senate, but 2. he doesn't think the haphazard method of using senatorial substitutes is working.

But would senators listen to anyone who isn't at least a senator?

And what kind of a man would take the job?

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo) reminded Stennis that Ben Butler once turned down a chance to run for the vice presidency.

"Butler said," Henning recalled, "he could imagine nothing more tedious than sitting in the presiding officer's chair and listening to the debates in the Senate."

"Someone must perform that function," Stennis said.

So just in case, you might keep a lookout for a man who wields a mean gavel, and whose ears are calloused and immune to tedium.

Experimental Vehicle Rides On Air Cushion

WOODRIDGE, N.J. (UPI)—The Curtiss-Wright Corp. Monday announced development of an experimental air-car that rides on a cushion of low pressure air 6 to 12 inches over ground or water.

The firm said a prototype had been tested successfully and plans called for eventual mass production.

At present, the air-car is being offered in limited quantities to "suitably qualified individuals, companies, universities and government agencies for experimental off-highway use and testing."

The firm will decide from the experimental use on the size, power and design of the mass production model.

Roy T. Hurley, chairman and president of Curtiss - Wright, said the air-car does not have conventional wheels, axles, brakes, clutches, transmissions or frame.

It uses a conventional piston-type gasoline engine ranging in size from 50 to 200 horse power. It will be able to carry from one to four passengers, and travel forward, backward, sideways or turn in a circle.

The air-car was described as oval-shaped and about the same length but slightly taller than an automobile.

There is a propeller in the back of the vehicle that sucks in air from an opening on the top. The air emerging from vents at the bottom provides the cushion of air. The air also can be directed through vents in the front, back or sides to provide guidance control.

The experimental models will have a frame constructed of sheet metal. The entire weight of the vehicle will range from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds.

Officials said the air-car could ride over any obstacles provided that they were not higher than the cushion of air. For instance, it could glide over a 11-inch boulder, but would not be able to make it over a three-foot fence. It has not been fully tested on sharp inclines.

The company declined to give estimates on such things as speed or mileage, but did say that operating costs would be low and, when in production, the price would be competitive with conventional car prices.

Second Honeymoon

MADRID (UPI) — Prince Ranier and Princess Grace of Monaco have arrived here for an eight-to-ten day "very private visit." It was three years to the day that they came here during their honeymoon in 1956.

Bees Disrupt Japanese Trek

LUBANG, Philippines (UPI)—A swarm of bees Monday attacked a Japanese mission dispatched to this jungle island to track down two World War II Japanese holdouts. The attack sent three severely stung men to a hospital and forced suspension of the operation.

The Japanese government task force was pushing toward its first objective in what was to have been a four-month campaign when the bees struck and forced them to retreat.

The head of the mission, Ministry of Welfare official Yuso Miura was taken to a village clinic in serious condition from the stings. Two Japanese newsmen also were hospitalized and a Philippine reporter treated for stings.

The Japanese had arrived on this island, 30 miles off Manila Bay, Sunday on a mission to contact Lt. Hiroo Onoda and Sgt. Kinshichi Kotsuka and try to coax the holdout soldiers out of hiding.

Onoda and Kotsuka were the last of an original force of 40 Japanese dispatched to Lubang in the closing days of World War II.

Thirty-six of the Japanese soldiers surrendered to U.S. forces in 1946. Another gave up in 1954 and one was killed by a Filipino army patrol.

Medical Student Stimulates Frogs To Grow Limbs

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—(UPI)—A University of Virginia medical student said Monday he has succeeded in stimulating frogs to grow new limbs to replace amputated members.

The student, Theodore I. Malinin of Beckley, W. Va., said an understanding of the process may lead to a key that might be applied to humans.

But Malinin said he is a long way from understanding what causes the regeneration.

The third-year student said he accomplished the regeneration in frogs by implanting tissues from embryos, and young tadpoles into frogs' limbs before amputation. The result, he said, led the frog to grow new bone as well as other tissues.

The first transcontinental telephone line established in the United States was from New York to San Francisco.

Pilot Rescued

Senate Sessions Often Like PTA Meetings--Chaos

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anyone who has attended PTA meetings can sympathize with the problem confronting the Senate.

PTA gatherings-at least, the ones I attend—often are dull and routine. Then you can hear, painfully clear, every dull and routine word.

But let someone slip in a hot issue, and everything flames into confusion. Someone, out of order, shouts about "Roberts Rules of Order." Private debates rage without anyone heeding the luckless presiding officer.

When the going gets rough, senators can be as noisy, and tie themselves in as many parliamentary knots, as ordinary mortals.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) thinks it's getting worse—and he doesn't like it.

"The chaos," he has told his colleagues, "is unbearable."

Several senators popped up to agree.

Sample comment, from Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn): "The lack of order made me ashamed."

Not a voice was raised in praise of chaos and confusion, although so much noise was made damning noise that the presiding officer, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), had to break in and say: "Let there be order in the Senate."

One of Stennis' suggestions should be easy to follow. So many senatorial assistants, committee aides and assorted experts flock to the floor during major debates it sometimes resembles a mob scene. So great is the confusion that, on a recent voice vote, some nonsenators are suspected of having voted.

Well, as Stennis said, this could be remedied easily. Keep out everyone who has no business on the floor.

But Stennis' other proposal--to hire a full-time, impartial presiding officer—might be harder for senators to take.

It's the constitutional duty of the vice president to preside. When he isn't there, which is often, senators take turns in the chair.

Stennis said 1. he agrees that in this modern world a vice president has more important chores than riding herd on the Senate, but 2. he doesn't think the haphazard method of using senatorial substitutes is working.

But would senators listen to anyone who isn't at least a senator?

And what kind of a man would take the job?

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo) reminded Stennis that Ben Butler once turned down a chance to run for the vice presidency.

"Butler said," Henning recalled, "he could imagine nothing more tedious than sitting in the presiding officer's chair and listening to the debates in the Senate."

"Someone must perform that function," Stennis said.

So just in case, you might keep a lookout for a man who wields a mean gavel, and whose ears are calloused and immune to tedium.

Experimental Vehicle Rides On Air Cushion

WOODRIDGE, N.J. (UPI)—The Curtiss-Wright Corp. Monday announced development of an experimental air-car that rides on a cushion of low pressure air 6 to 12 inches over ground or water.

The firm said a prototype had been tested successfully and plans called for eventual mass production.

At present, the air-car is being offered in limited quantities to "suitably qualified individuals, companies, universities and government agencies for experimental off-highway use and testing."

The firm will decide from the experimental use on the size, power and design of the mass production model.

Roy T. Hurley, chairman and president of Curtiss - Wright, said the air-car does not have conventional wheels, axles, brakes, clutches, transmissions or frame.

It uses a conventional piston-type gasoline engine ranging in size from 50 to 200 horse power. It will be able to carry from one to four passengers, and travel forward, backward, sideways or turn in a circle.

The air-car was described as oval-shaped and about the same length but slightly taller than an automobile.

There is a propeller in the back of the vehicle that sucks in air from an opening on the top. The air emerging from vents at the bottom provides the cushion of air. The air also can be directed through vents in the front, back or sides to provide guidance control.

The experimental models will have a frame constructed of sheet metal. The entire weight of the vehicle will range from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds.

Officials said the air-car could ride over any obstacles provided that they were not higher than the cushion of air. For instance, it could glide over a 11-inch boulder, but would not be able to make it over a three-foot fence. It has not been fully tested on sharp inclines.

The company declined to give estimates on such things as speed or mileage, but did say that operating costs would be low and, when in production, the price would be competitive with conventional car prices.

Bees Disrupt Japanese Trek

LUBANG, Philippines (UPI)—A swarm of bees Monday attacked a Japanese mission dispatched to this jungle island to track down two World War II Japanese holdouts. The attack sent three severely stung men to a hospital and forced suspension of the operation.

The Japanese government task force was pushing toward its first objective in what was to have been a four-month campaign when the bees struck and forced them to retreat.

The head of the mission, Ministry of Welfare official Yuso Miura was taken to a village clinic in serious condition from the stings. Two Japanese newsmen also were hospitalized and a Philippine reporter treated for stings.

The Japanese had arrived on this island, 30 miles off Manila Bay, Sunday on a mission to contact Lt. Hiroo Onoda and Sgt. Kinshichi Kotsuka and try to coax the holdout soldiers out of hiding.

Onoda and Kotsuka were the last of an original force of 40 Japanese dispatched to Lubang in the closing days of World War II.

Thirty-six of the Japanese soldiers surrendered to U.S. forces in 1946. Another gave up in 1954 and one was killed by a Filipino army patrol.

MADRID (UPI) — Prince Ranier and Princess Grace of Monaco have arrived here for an eight-to-ten day "very private visit." It was three years to the day that they came here during their honeymoon in 1956.

Medical Student Stimulates Frogs To Grow Limbs

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—(UPI)—A University of Virginia medical student said Monday he has succeeded in stimulating frogs to grow new limbs to replace amputated members.

The student, Theodore I. Malinin of Beckley, W. Va., said an understanding of the process may lead to a key that might be applied to humans.

But Malinin said he is a long way from understanding what causes the regeneration.

The third-year student said he accomplished the regeneration in frogs by implanting tissues from embryos, and young tadpoles into frogs' limbs before amputation. The result, he said, led the frog to grow new bone as well as other tissues.

The first transcontinental telephone line established in the United States was from New York to San Francisco.

Seattle Span Floats On Concrete Slabs

By ROBERT COUR
Seattle Post-Intelligencer
Staff Writer

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Riding on great, gray blocks of floating concrete, the world's first and largest permanent floating bridge stretches eastward from Seattle.

It hugs the gently lapping waters of Lake Washington and points a blunt finger at the snow-tipped Cascade Mountains to the east.

Except for one just half its size in the remote island of Tasmania and a floating span at Lake Okanagan at Kelowna, B. C., the Lake Washington bridge is the only one of its kind in the world.

But soon, Seattle will be up to its ears in floating bridges.

Burgeoning population in Seattle, across the lake and across the turbulent salt waters of Puget Sound, has created a need for two and possibly three more bridges.

In the Seattle area, bridges mean floating bridges because of the need for superhighways across long stretches of deep water and at a cost which the state can afford.

The present lake bridge cost $8,850,000, probably the best bargain the State of Washington has ever made.

A second Lake Washington floating bridge has been approved by the State Legislature. This, 3.3 miles to the north of the present span, will be almost a companion piece. The floating portion will cost something like 12 million dollars—A goodly sum but less expensive than, say, a truss bridge, or a suspension bridge. When completed, its 7,518 feet on pontoons will make it the longest.

Tin-hatted construction workers have almost completed one phase of another bridge which floats — a $14,226,000, two-lane highway to span Hood Canal, on the Olympic Peninsula west of Seattle, a rambunctious, wind-swept arm of water which cuts down south and west from the stormy Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Why this Seattle bent for floating bridges?

Engineers planning the present lake bridge were faced with the problem of spanning something like a mile and a half of water, as deep as 210 feet in many places. Before 1940, bridge builders didn't believe a floating span could be built for more than 1,000 feet. For long hauls, you took the ferry.

Lacey V. Murrow, then state director of highways—he is a brother of television commentator Edward R. Murrow—and Charles E. Andrew, a consulting engineer fresh from building the San Francisco - Oakland Bay Bridge, were handed the problem.

They finally selected concrete for pontoons because of low cost and the ease with which they could be cast hollow and to exact dimensions.

Further tests showed that the pontoons would not gallop out of place if steel cables were attached to concrete blocks sunk deep in the water.

Work began in January 1939. Twenty-five pontoons, each weighing 4,500 tons, were poured in 350-foot concrete forms.

Each pontoon was divided into 12 watertight compartments and each compartment into eight cells. The honeycomb effect made the pontoons buoyant enough to easily support the 100,000-ton bridge linking Seattle with Mercer Island to the east.

Tolls paid off the bridge in 1949 —nine years to the minute of the bridge opening on July 2, 1940, and 19 years ahead of time. It has been toll-free for nearly 10 years.

71-Year-Old Great-Grandmother Walking From Ohio To Oregon

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (UPI)— A 71-year-old Gallipolis, Ohio, great-grandmother is walking to Oregon to prove that the spirit that drove pioneer women westward a century ago is not dead.

Mrs. Emma Gatewood, her only equipment a 14-pound knapsack, a light blanket and an umbrella, paused here Monday night to rest at the home of Sgt. and Mrs. E. D. Kaufman before continuing on her journey Tuesday.

"I read a piece in the newspapers about that wagon train going to Oregon, and I thought of all the women who walked behind the wagons when they went to settle the country," Mrs. Gatewood said.

"I was looking for something to do this summer and a walk to Oregon seemed like the best thing."

Walking long distances isn't new to Mrs. Gatewood. She walked more than 600 miles last summer through Pennsylvania and Ohio, covering historic trails.

In 1956 she walked the 2,050 miles of the Appalachian Trail between Georgia and Maine and was given a gold trophy and a lifetime membership by the National Campers and Hikers Association.

At 71 years, Mrs. Gatewood has 11 children, 27 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. She says she is not making the trip to publicize Oregon's current centennial celebration, which prompted the on-to - Oregon wagon cavalcade she read about.

"I'm paying my own way," she says. "No one ever paid any attention to me before. . . and I didn't even tell my children where I was going when I took the bus to Independence, Mo., where I started last Monday."

Mrs. Gatewood says she wears out a pair of cloth, rubber-soled shoes about every three weeks.

She plans to arrive in Oregon sometime in August, but said she wasn't sure because "I can't tell from here."

She carries a little food in her knapsack but never cooks while on the trail.

"The only time I build a fire is when I'm cold or wet from the rain, and I sleep out only when I have to." She said she usually stays at a farmhouse but expects to travel a lot of sparsely settled country on the Kansas plains.

Is this exercise good for her health?

"I don't drink coffee, tea or soda pop," she says. "I have waded streams, walked in the rain and slept in the open but I have never been sick or taken any medicine. Haven't even had a headache."

Clinton One Of Most-Pictured Men In History

WASHINGTON (AP) — The thoughtful, unsmiling face of De Witt Clinton has appeared on nearly 500 billion cigaret tax stamps during the past 80 years.

Even so, he languishes in obscurity.

After June 24, Clinton will recede even further to the shadows of the past. On that day the blue tax stamps will be discarded, to be replaced by the more modern device of tax returns.

Since Clinton's face was put on the stamps in 1879, 498 billion have been printed. This is more than any other U.S. stamp with the possible exception of the old three-cent postage issue picturing George Washington. The post office said it did not know how many of these were printed.

Clinton, 1769-1828, was best known for pushing the Erie Canal to completion.

He was James Madison's opponent in the 1812 presidential election. He was swamped in the electoral vote. On the other hand, there aren't many pictures of Madison still around.

Contented Cows

'KIDLINGTON, England (UPI)— Maj. Anthony Bramley said Tuesday his 80 cows were sleeping on plastic foam mattresses because good straw was expensive and hard to get. "There's no doubt the cows like the mattresses very much," he said. He reported milk production had increased.

Japs To Payoff

TOKYO (UPI) — The Foreign Office announced Tuesday that Japan had agreed to deliver $27,800,000 worth of goods and services to the Philippines during the third year of the war reparations program ending in July.

Announcement of the agreement reached May 8 ended months of negotiations of the reparations deliveries.

Air Force Sergeant Found Shot To Death

SMYRNA, Del. (AP) — A Dover Air Force base sergeant was found shot to death Tuesday in his car parked on a lonely road near Smyrna.

Delaware State Police identified the victim as 27-year-old Staff Sgt. John Jacoby of Library, Pa.

Dr. S. J. Bjornson, coroner, said Jacoby had been shot with a 25 caliber pistol. There was a slight powder burn on the forehead.

Police said there was some blood on the road near the car and it is believed that the airman, a member of the Dover AFB maintenance squadron, lived long enough after being shot to get out and back into his car.

Jacoby is survived by his widow.

Library Gets Biography And New Novels

Novels and first-rate non-fiction works are among the new additions to the Cumberland Free Public Library, according to Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant librarian who periodically selects new books for review.

Miss Cain found "Collision Course" by Alvin Moscow to be a careful reconstruction of the collision of the Andrea Doria and the Stockholm, the most incredible sea disaster of modern times.

Other comments on new books at the library by Miss Cain:

Robert St. John has written an imaginative, readable and accurate biography of David Ben-Gurion, national leader. This text offers excellent reading for those interested in retracing Israel's story from 1948 to the present.

One of the most prolific writers, Frank G. Slaughter has added another very remarkable book to his long list of successes. "The Crown and the Cross" reverently relates the story of Christ's life on earth. Special attention is given to the findings of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

"The Last Nine Days of the Bismarck" by C. S. Forester recounts the wildest naval adventure of modern times. This naval epic is a thrilling and authentic story of the escape and pursuit of Hitler's deadliest battleship.

Doris Miles Disney has written a suspense novel, "Did She Fall Or Was She Pushed," with a clever combination of the strictest of puzzles together with a charming story.

"The Kingdom Under the Sea" by Henri Queffelec has been hailed by the French press as one of the great sea novels in modern French literature.

"Twixt Twelve and Twenty" by Pat Boone is one of the most popular books on the best seller lists. This book, written especially for teenagers, will, no doubt, be an answer to many of their problems, said Miss Cain.

City Voting Rolls Drop

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland decreased 15 during April for a new total of 11,645.

Eight new voters, six men and two women, were placed on the voting books during the month, according to a report by Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

The result for the month was a loss, however, after the names of 23 dead voters were stricken off the books.

The registered voters on May 1 included 6,041 white males, 5,401 white females, 125 colored males and 78 colored females.

County Names Vickers To LaVale Sanitary Unit

Arthur A. Vickers, 517 National Highway, yesterday was named a member of the LaVale Sanitary Commission by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Vickers, who is a civil engineer, is in charge of the local office of the U. S. Geological Water Survey which keeps data on streams in this area. He was recommended for the appointment to succeed W. D. Claus, whose term expires this month, by the LaVale Improvement Association.

The county board received a letter from George S. Fockler, president of the Washington County Board of Commissioners, in which it was stated the commissioners of that county were in agreement that periodical meetings of the boards of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties would be profitable.

Fockler said that Cumberland would be the most centrally located place for these meetings. He also said that Washington County is in process of holding meetings on assessments and the meeting could not be held until sometime late next month.

The idea of meetings of the three county boards was proposed by Commissioner William A. Wilson of the local board several weeks ago. It was an outgrowth of a meeting of commissioners from Western Maryland with Rep. John R. Foley (D. 6th Md.) about a month ago.

A letter was also received from the Pauly Jail Building Company of New York offering services in any plans the county might have for erecting a new jail. The letter was filed.

Boarding Try Fails

LONDON (UPI)—The Admiralty announced Monday that an Icelandic gunboat attempted to put a boarding party on the British trawler Avon River off the coast of Iceland Sunday but was warned off by a British destroyer.

The Admiralty announcement of the latest "fish war" incident said the Icelandic gunboat Thor withdrew after the destroyer Contest warned it to desist in the boarding attempt.

Navy Team To Visit FSTC

A Naval Aviation Information Team, headed by Lt. Cmdr. E. C. Atkinson of Washington, D. C., will visit this area this week, according to local Navy recruiters.

On Thursday, the team will be on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College to discuss with interested college men the Navy's flight training program and other programs leading to a commission in the Navy.

The aviation mental examinations will be given at a tme and place convenient to the students so as not to interfere with college activities. Anyone interested may take the examination by contacting one of the team members during this visit.

About six-elevenths of Iceland's area is unproductive.

Will Visit U.S.

BONN, Germany (UPI) — West German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, who may succeed Konrad Adenauer as chancellor this year, will visit the United States next month.

Economic Ministry sources said that Erhard would go to the United States to receive honorary degrees from two universities. It was assumed, however, that Erhard would take advantage of the visit to meet with U.S. leaders.

Library Gets Biography And New Novels

Novels and first-rate non-fiction works are among the new additions to the Cumberland Free Public Library, according to Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant librarian who periodically selects new books for review.

Miss Cain found "Collision Course" by Alvin Moscow to be a careful reconstruction of the collision of the Andrea Doria and the Stockholm, the most incredible sea disaster of modern times.

Other comments on new books at the library by Miss Cain:

Robert St. John has written an imaginative, readable and accurate biography of David Ben-Gurion, national leader. This text offers excellent reading for those interested in retracing Israel's story from 1948 to the present.

One of the most prolific writers, Frank G. Slaughter has added another very remarkable book to his long list of successes. "The Crown and the Cross" reverently relates the story of Christ's life on earth. Special attention is given to the findings of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

"The Last Nine Days of the the Bismarck" by C. S. Forester recounts the wildest naval adventure of modern times. This naval epic is a thrilling and authentic story of the escape and pursuit of Hitler's deadliest battleship.

Doris Miles Disney has written a suspense novel, "Did She Fall Or Was She Pushed," with a clever combination of the strictest of puzzles together with a charming story.

"The Kingdom Under the Sea" by Henri Queffelec has been hailed by the French press as one of the great sea novels in modern French literature.

"Twixt Twelve and Twenty" by Pat Boone is one of the most popular books on the best seller lists. This book, written especially for teenagers, will, no doubt, be an answer to many of their problems, said Miss Cain.

City Voting Rolls Drop

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland decreased 15 during April for a new total of 11,645.

Eight new voters, six men and two women, were placed on the voting books during the month, according to a report by Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

The result for the month was a loss, however, after the names of 23 dead voters were stricken off the books.

The registered voters on May 1 included 6,041 white males, 5,401 white females, 123 colored males and 78 colored females.

County Names Vickers To LaVale Sanitary Unit

Arthur A. Vickers, 517 National Highway, yesterday was named a member of the LaVale Sanitary Commission by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Vickers, who is a civil engineer, is in charge of the local office of the U. S. Geological Water Survey which keeps data on streams in this area. He was recommended for the appointment to succeed W. D. Claus, whose term expires this month, by the LaVale Improvement Association.

The county board received a letter from George S. Fockler, president of the Washington County Board of Commissioners, in which it was stated the commissioners of that county were in agreement that periodical meetings of the boards of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties would be profitable.

Fockler said that Cumberland would be the most centrally located place for these meetings. He also said that Washington County is in process of holding meetings on assessments and the meeting could not be held until sometime late next month.

The idea of meetings of the three county boards was proposed by Commissioner William A. Wilson of the local board several weeks ago. It was an outgrowth of a meeting of commissioners from Western Maryland with Rep. John R. Foley (D. 6th Md.) about a month ago.

A letter was also received from the Pauly Jail Building Company of New York offering services in any plans the county might have for erecting a new jail. The letter was filed.

Boarding Try Fails

LONDON (UPI)—The Admiralty announced Monday that an Icelandic gunboat attempted to put a boarding party on the British trawler Avon River off the coast of Iceland Sunday but was warned off by a British destroyer.

The Admiralty announcement of the latest "fish war" incident said the Icelandic gunboat Thor withdrew after the destroyer Contest warned it to desist in the boarding attempt.

Navy Team To Visit FSTC

A Naval Aviation Information Team, headed by Lt. Cmdr. E. C. Atkinson of Washington, D. C., will visit this area this week, according to local Navy recruiters.

On Thursday, the team will be on the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College to discuss with interested college men the Navy's flight training program and other programs leading to a commission in the Navy.

The aviation mental examinations will be given at a tme and place convenient to the students so as not to interfere with college activities. Anyone interested may take the examination by contacting one of the team members during this visit.

About six-elevenths of Iceland's area is unproductive.

Will Visit U.S.

BONN, Germany (UPI) — West German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, who may succeed Konrad Adenauer as chancellor this year, will visit the United States next month.

Economic Ministry sources said that Erhard would go to the United States to receive honorary degrees from two universities. It was assumed, however, that Erhard would take advantage of the visit to meet with U.S. leaders.

ACTA Passes Resolution Praising Higgins, Rizer

The Allegany County Teachers Association Monday adopted a resolution expressing the appreciation of the organization to Homer Higgins and Richard T. Rizer of the Allegany County Board of Education.

The resolution was adopted by the group to express appreciation for carrying to successful completion the work Higgins and Rizer performed on the association's pension discrepancy bill.

Mr. Rizer and Mr. Higgins last week announced their resignation from the association.

The resolution pointed out that Rizer was appointed by William Donahue, past president of ACTA, to the subcommittee of the legislative committee to assist Edward Meconi and the late Llewyn Davis in doing research on the pension system with a view to having the annuity discrepancy corrected, and that Mr. Higgins was duly elected by the ACTA to serve for three years on the legislative committee.

The resolution stated that these committees were authorized and directed by a vote of the association at Parkside School in January of 1957 and were again authorized at a meeting of ACTA at Allegany High School in November 1958 to make the pension the prime project of the committee until the General Assembly had acted upon said pension (then Senate Bill 58).

Bomb Kills Three

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Three Thai air force men were killed when a bomb they found exploded in their quarters at air force headquarters at Prachuab Kirikhan, it was reported Tuesday.

An airman and his wife in a nearby room were injured. Air force officials said the men found a 100-pound bomb on a gunnery range and apparently were trying to remove the powder when it went off.

Persons Being Recertified For Surplus Food

Allegany County residents who have been receiving surplus foods during the past five months are being recertified through the office of Grant A. Wiebel, supervisor of the program for the county commissioners.

Wiebel conferred with William Brugger, Baltimore, supervisor of the donable foods program for the State Department of Budget and Procurement, and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday on various phases of the county program.

Brugger made a number of recommendations which should be instituted in this county. John J. Rowan, president of the board, told Brugger that the commissioners have adopted a "hands off policy" in regard to the surplus food program in recent months and are allowing Wiebel to handle all details of its operation.

Brugger said that steel files should be made available for Wiebel's office as the various papers must be kept for three years under U. S. government regulations for the program.

During the current recertification all persons who are not on public welfare rolls must furnish proof as far as the number of children they have, Brugger said. The distribution of foods to these persons who are listed as "non-public assistance cases" will be carried out this month, but in June they must have the necessary proof of the number of children in the family.

Brugger told the commissioners that since the program was started here last December the federal government has furnished a railroad carload of cheese, and two railroad carloads each of the following foodstuffs, butter, dried milk, cornmeal, flour and rice.

Brugger also said the Cumberland distribution point at the State Armory is much more satisfactory than the depot which had been used in South End.

Brugger also reported the U. S. Department of Agriculture has drawn up pamphlets which list various ways in which the surplus foods may be prepared. He suggested that the county could either have copies of these mimeographed or else a home economist could give demonstrations of preparing foods at the distribution points.

Members of the board were not enthusiastic about either of these plans. They said the foodstuffs are of such nature that they would have to be prepared with some other foods which are not on the surplus list and it is believed not many persons receiving assistance could purchase these other foods.

NEW DEPUTY — William E. 'Scotty' Orr Jr., of Midland, has been named deputy sheriff to fill a vacancy which has existed for several months. Orr served as a deputy from 1946 until about 1950. He is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict having served with the Navy.

County Board Hears Complaints

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received a request for repairs to 21st Lane in McCoole.

I. N. Bolyard said if the roadway were repaired he could have a roadway built into a large area he owns and develop it into a housing section.

Mrs. Leona Conrad said the dust condition has caused her child to develop an allergy and hospitalization was required. Fred Luzader said the roadway is about a mile long and is a county road.

Group Named To Study Plans For Hospital

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday named three men to serve on a committee which will study proposals for the eventual assumption of local operation of Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

They are John Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital; W. Earle Cobey, local attorney; and George Eichhorn, Lonaconing, who operates a furniture store and funeral home.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason nominated Moberly. Cobey was the choice of Commissioner John J. Rowan and Commissioner William A. Wilson named Eichhorn.

The Frostburg institution must be taken over and operated by some local agency or group by 1961 as all state funds for the hospital will be withdrawn then. The time was extended by a year as the result of legislation passed in the General Assembly during the last session.

The county board named the three men to act as the representatives of the commissioners in plans for providing continued operation of the institution. It has been stated by the commissioners that the county could not assume operation of the institution due to the financial burden it would impose.

A committee which will be appointed by the Mayor and Council of Frostburg will meet with the county board's committee within 30 days to discuss plans for the study of the situation.

Mayors To Meet

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — Mayor Huh Chung of Seoul left here Monday en route to Philadelphia for a three-day goodwill visit at invitation of Mayor Richardson Dilworth.

The mayor was accompanied by his daughter, Huh Chung.

Dilworth had explained that he was inviting the Seoul mayor in expressing of regret for the October, 1957, murder of a Korean student by a group of teen-agers in Philadelphia. The student, Ho In Ho, was attending the University of Pennsylvania.

Dead Circus Snake Found In South End

Residents of South End had a little bit of excitement late Monday night when an Offutt Street woman discovered a seven-foot Python snake lying beside her home.

City Police were summoned to the scene. Officer Clarence Valentine said that the snake was owned by the Hagen Brothers Circus which performed Monday at the old Taylor Field and had died during the day.

Police believe someone just tossed the snake beside the home. It measured a little over seven feet and weighed between 25 and 30 pounds. Police said its body was about the size of a man's arm.

Allegany County residents who have been receiving surplus foods during the past five months are being recertified through the office of Grant A. Wiebel, supervisor of the program for the county commissioners.

Wiebel conferred with William Brugger, Baltimore, supervisor of the donable foods program for the State Department of Budget and Procurement, and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday on various phases of the county program.

Brugger made a number of recommendations which should be instituted in this county. John J. Rowan, president of the board, told Brugger that the commissioners have adopted a "hands off policy" in regard to the surplus food program in recent months and are allowing Wiebel to handle all details of its operation.

Brugger said that steel files should be made available for Wiebel's office as the various papers must be kept for three years under U. S. government regulations for the program.

During the current recertification all persons who are not on public welfare rolls must furnish proof as far as the number of children they have, Brugger said. The distribution of foods to these persons who are listed as "non-public assistance cases" will be carried out this month, but in June they must have the necessary proof of the number of children in the family.

Brugger told the commissioners that since the program was started here last December the federal government has furnished a railroad carload of cheese, and two railroad carloads each of the following foodstuffs, butter, dried milk, cornmeal, flour and rice.

Brugger also said the Cumberland distribution point at the State Armory is much more satisfactory than the depot which had been used in South End.

Brugger also reported the U. S. Department of Agriculture has drawn up pamphlets which list various ways in which the surplus foods may be prepared. He suggested that the county could either have copies of these mimeographed or else a home economist could give demonstrations of preparing foods at the distribution points.

Members of the board were not enthusiastic about either of these plans. They said the foodstuffs are of such nature that they would have to be prepared with some other foods which are not on the surplus list and it is believed not many persons receiving assistance could purchase these other foods.

County Board Hears Complaints

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received a request for repairs to 21st Lane in McCoole.

I. N. Bolyard said if the roadway were repaired he could have a roadway built into a large area he owns and develop it into a housing section.

Mrs. Leona Conrad said the dust condition has caused her child to develop an allergy and hospitalization was required. Fred Luzader said the roadway is about a mile long and is a county road.

Group Named To Study Plans For Hospital

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday named three men to serve on a committee which will study proposals for the eventual assumption of local operation of Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

They are John Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital; W. Earle Cobey, local attorney; and George Eichhorn, Lonaconing, who operates a furniture store and funeral home.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason nominated Moberly, Cobey was the choice of Commissioner John J. Rowan and Commissioner William A. Wilson named Eichhorn.

The Frostburg institution must be taken over and operated by some local agency or group by 1961 as all state funds for the hospital will be withdrawn then. The time was extended by a year as the result of legislation passed in the General Assembly during the last session.

The county board named the three men to act as the representatives of the commissioners in plans for providing continued operation of the institution. It has been stated by the commissioners that the county could not assume operation of the institution due to the financial burden it would impose.

A committee which will be appointed by the Mayor and Council of Frostburg will meet with the county board's committee within 30 days to discuss plans for the study of the situation.

Dead Circus Snake Found In South End

Residents of South End had a little bit of excitement late Monday night when an Offutt Street woman discovered a seven-foot Python snake lying beside her home.

City Police were summoned to the scene. Officer Clarence Valentine said that the snake was owned by the Hagen Brothers Circus which performed Monday at the old Taylor Field and had died during the day.

Police believe someone just tossed the snake beside the home. It measured a little over seven feet and weighed between 25 and 30 pounds. Police said its body was about the size of a man's arm.

Ordinary mattress is made with about 200-300 springs. Wired together, they sag together under your weight. When you push down on one, you push down on all. They're not free to push up and correctly support the shape of your body. This "sagging support" is bad for your back, your comfort, your rest.

Beautyrest mattress is made with over 800 separate springs. Not wired together, they can't sag together. Each is free to push up under you. Together they firmly support the weight and shape of your whole body. In the new Beautyrest springs have been power-packed to give 12% more firmness.

Shots Urged Before Polio Season Hits

The Maryland Public Health Association has given its endorsement to current efforts of governmental and other agencies to achieve a high level of immunity against paralytic polio.

The endorsement was given at an executive committee meeting following a discussion of the status of Maryland residents with respect to protective inoculations.

Dr. William J. Peeples, president of the association and Montgomery County health officer, stated "We have followed the course of the polio vaccine drive in Maryland closely and while there is a relatively large number of persons protected, current studies show that many children and older persons either have not yet had the protective vaccine or, having had only one or two polio vaccine shots, have a false sense of security believing that they are adequately protected."

"Three doses of the vaccine are needed to develop a good level of protection," Dr. Peeples said. "With less than three months to another polio season Maryland residents are urged to take positive action now to protect themselves and their families, and particularly children in the under five age group."

The Public's Stake In Steel

Steel wage negotiations are now under way in New York to the accompaniment of a warning from President Eisenhower that the government may be forced to intervene if the industry and the union cannot settle their dispute without setting off a new round of wage-price inflation.

Mr. Eisenhower did not spell out what he could or would do, and there is certainly doubt on this point. There is nothing in the law to prevent the union from seeking and the industry from granting wage boosts so high that a round of price increases will be inevitable, and no one expects the President to ask Congress to impose wage-price controls no matter what eventuates at the bargaining table.

What Mr. Eisenhower's warning amounts to is a public proclamation that the public and the nation as a whole have a heavy stake in this round of private bargaining. Steel is so basic a commodity that an increase in steel prices can set off a wave of price increases all through the economy and can have a serious effect on exports as well.

A nation acutely conscious of the evils of inflation and the power of unions will be watching more closely than ever this year what happens in steel.

Steelworkers, as well as management, would do well to remember the President's warning that there is more at stake in their bargaining than their private affairs. The public welfare is concerned and public pressure will weigh heavily against either side to the dispute which ignores it.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Shop Talk

In the medical profession, doctors used to write prescriptions in a mysterious script which even pharmacists had to guess at. The patient, of course, was hopelessly mystified. Today, most of the medications of great value come clearly labelled and if the doctor or patient demands "original bottle" or "original label," the mystery is all gone. The details of medication are clear.

However, in the so-called intellectual disciplines, the immediate objective of the learned is to state a case in language which no one is supposed to understand who is not of that particular discipline. I take, at random, a sentence from a study on gangs—a subject with which I have nearly 60 years of familiarity. Says the author:

". . . However, we are especially interested in a third possibility, namely, that in the majority of cases psychogenic and sub-cultural factors blend in a single casual process, as pollen and a particular bodily constitution work together to produce hay fever . . ."

Now what this man says is very simple. Translated into non-discipline English, he means heredity and environment can combine to produce a juvenile delinquent. If he said it as simply as that, he would be just a simple person, not an intellectual. On the other hand, nobody would question the intellectual status of William James. But note the simplicity of language:

". . . The earlier men were hunting men, and to hunt a neighboring tribe, kill the males, loot the village and possess the females, was the most profitable, as well as the most exciting, way of living . . ."

Or, if one wishes another example, there, is the classical essay by Thomas Huxley on "Science and Culture" in which he says:

"Once upon a time, a boy, with nothing to depend upon but his own vigorous nature, was thrown into the thick of the struggle for existence in the midst of a great manufacturing population. He seems to have had a hard fight, inasmuch as, by the time he was thirty years of age, his total disposable funds amounted to twenty pounds.

"Nevertheless, middle life found him giving proof of his comprehension of the practical problems he had been roughly called upon to solve, by a career of remarkable prosperity."

I could go on and on citing from the great masters of knowledge to show that the truly intellectual minds could state their cases with simplicity of language. And speaking about governments or gangs or corporations or anything that requires unity of action and compromise of private positions, let us turn to the greatest of all intellects, Aristotle, for plain and forthright speech:

". . . In the first place there must be a union of those who cannot exist without each other; namely, of male and female, that the race may continue . . . and of natural ruler and subject, that both may be preserved . . ."

In a word, for convenience or joint operations or even for the joy of living, there are those who must gang up and join forces. And that, of course, can produce a gang as well as a marriage, a rumble as well as a war.

The intellectual's excuse for complexity of speech is that he seeks precision and therefore cannot use loose language, as for instance, "We have now to consider what and what kind of government is suitable to what and what kind of men . . ."

The confusing language of some intellectuals is unquestionably due to the complexity of their processes of thought. They are not as sure of their premise as Aristotle was. The social scientists particularly encounter difficulties because their subjects cross each other, sociology having much to do with economics and anthropology and history and geography. In a word, the disciplines are compartmentalized phases of the whole of human knowledge and he who specializes too narrowly often knows too little about his subject to know anything at all. To live, he must show off, and showing off gets him into conflict with the specialists in other subects who are also showing off.

I had the good fortune to study under truly great minds, men who have left permanent marks upon the intellectual history of this country, such men as Charles A. Beard, James Harvey Robinson, Walter Pitkin, Dickinson Miller and similar personalities. I knew John Dewey and studied Marxism nearly half a century ago under Vladimir Simkhovitch. These men did not require complex sentences and confused speech to prove that they were intellectuals. They were intelligent.

Can't Fight Him From Up There

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Speaker Sam Rayburn is not averse to a bourbon and branch water, but there is nothing he dislikes more than excessive drinking. Right now he is determined to enact a bill banning the sale of alcoholic drinks on the commercial airlines. Most of his Congressional colleagues, however, don't know what is behind his crusade. Here is what happened.

Rayburn was pestered by a drunk while flying back to Washington from Texas recently.

As Sam explained to a friend: "This fellow was already 'flying' when he sat down beside me, before the plane even took off. By the time he was served two more big drinks he was really in high gear. Unfortunately, he recognized me and began yelling in my ear about what was wrong with Congress.

"Of course, I couldn't get away from him up in tha airplane. He also bothered other passengers. It was one of the most unpleasant trips I have ever experienced."

When the Speaker arrived in Washington he lost no time seeking out the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, Rep. Oren Harris of Arkansas.

"Oren, isn't it about time you reported out that airplane drinking bill?" he demanded.

Harris has been wasting no time acting on the suggestion. The anti-snifter measure, which is supported by most airline pilots and stewardesses, in addition to Rayburn, should be reported soon for House action.

Lee And Abe Lincoln

Over an early breakfast eaten behind closed doors, South Carolina's Dixiecrat Sen. Strom Thurmond drew a spiritual lesson from the two great leaders of the Civil War—Robert E. Lee of the South and Abraham Lincoln of the North.

Thurmond spoke to a handful of Senators who meet privately each Wednesday morning to worship together. What is said at their prayer breakfast is kept between them and their Maker. No Senator attends for the political good it might do him back home.

However, Thurmond's remarks so impressed his listeners that this writer would like to report the highlights.

"As Lincoln in the North would likely have done had he lived, Lee did his best to heal the wounds of war," said Senator Thurmond. "On many occasions, unhappy, disillusioned Southerners attempted to get fuel for bitterness from him.

" 'But General Lee, did you never feel any bitterness toward the North?' one such Southerner asked him.

"His answer came in quiet tones: 'I believe I may say, looking into my own heart and speaking in the presence of God, that I have never known one moment of bitterness or resentment'."

The Dixiecrat Senator, whose stern face but gentle manner have characterized him in the Senate, spoke of Lee's humility. In an earlier talk to the prayer group, he described Lincoln's faith—even though in some parts of the South praise of Lincoln is not popular.

Lee's Humbleness

Of Lee, Thurmond declared: "The more one studies the character of Robert Edward Lee, seeking to probe its depths, discover its ultimate touchstone and secret, the more one is convinced that the foundation of the man's whole nature was a deep religious humility . . .

"He was a great soldier and a great strategist. But, more important, he was humble. Humility enabled him to get the maximum effort from his men, and this humbleness made him a saint in the eyes of his men . . . As Lee rode by a campfire, a Confederate private remarked: 'Well, boys, the rest of us may have developed from monkeys, but I tell you only God Almighty could make a man like Marse Robert!' "

After Lee's surrender, Senator Thurmond told how he accepted the presidency of small Washington College in the Shenandoah Valley.

"The salary was to be $1,500 annually," reported Thurmond, "if funds were available. He accepted this position only after explaining to the trustees his serious doubts as to whether he could do full justice to the job . . . In taking over the administration of war-torn Washington College, Lee first built a chapel . . . He lived but five years after taking the oatth of presidency, yet his vigor, clarity of vision, and wisdom of policy in these few years earned for him and his college a positi in the history of American education."

Summarizing, Thurmond declared: "As the worshipped leader of a defeated people, Lee held his head high and set out to give an example to his people . . . It was his simple humility and humbleness of character which set him apart, ahead and above his fellow men."

Southerner Praises Lincoln

Of Lincoln, the Senator earlier said: "He was always a good man with the highest moral principles. Shortly before the death of his mother, he promised her that he would never drink liquor, and he kept that pledge to his death. His strongest profanity, if you wish to call it that, was his use of the phrase, 'By Jing'. His honesty was legendary, as was his kindness. He was a great and good man . . . He studied God's word and tried to apply it to his own life until, finally, it became the foundation for a strong and unshakeable faith. The evidence clearly shows that Abraham Lincoln believed in God, in Christ, in the Bible, in prayer, in duty, and in immortality."

Secretary Herter Is Now Getting His Real Test

By Joseph Alsop

GENEVA

Herter of course made his debut as Secretary of State at the Paris meeting, where the Western foreign ministers papered over the cracks of their disagreements in preparation for the present monstrous rally.

After this Herter debut, both Paris and London rang with praise for the new secretary, and Bonn too reportedly joined in. Herter's pleasant manners, his easiness as a colleague, his firm grasp of the problems in hand, his thorough knowledge of the massive dossiers behind each problem, were the chief points noted. But against these entries on the credit side of the ledger, there was a major entry on the debit side.

"He did not impose himself. He was not the chief." That was the substance of the unfavorable comment behind the scenes. It is ironical, but it is significant too, that the other Western allies would have felt happier and more at home, if Herter had been rather less nice and a good deal more bossy.

Even among the unwavering admirers of John Foster Dulles, none would choose to describe him as a "nice man." As a negotiator, Dulles was too domineering, too crafty and too ruthless for the adjective, "nice." But even the many Western leaders and officials who formerly detested Foster Dulles look back with real nostalgia to the domineering Dulles ways.

The plain truth is that a great many Western leaders found it highly convenient to be driven to do this or to oppose that by Secretary Dulles; and then to go home and complain about Dulles' "rigidity." Dulles served the Alliance as what the biologists call an exoskeleton. He acted as a kind of external stiffening which relieved other backbones of any undue strain.

Precisely this quality was missed in Herter at the Paris meeting. In his quiet, polite, considerate way, Herter worked as an equal among equals, earning general admiration, as above noted, for his knowledge, clear views and tact. But working as an equal among equals was not really what the others wanted him to do. Furthermore, the chances are that Herter cannot safely continue this approach at Geneva. Here the paper over the cracks in the Western Alliance is bound to wear pretty thin, if not to be torn off altogether.

Six months have passed since the beginning of the Berlin crisis, without producing any solid Western agreement on any really Critical point. There is agreement, of course, on what to say and how to say it at the outset here in Geneva. But after all the meetings and working parties and position papers, there is no real agreement on how far to go in offering concessions to the Soviets; or on what counter-concessions to ask; or on what to do if the Soviets are not satisfied with the concessions that are offered.

In sum, the ship of the West is being steered by a committee of helmsmen, who have widely different ideas about the right course to steer when the expected high gale begins to blow. This is an inherently dangerous situation. It can become much more dangerous, if it is not cured fairly soon. And because of the special American role in the Western Alliance, it is up to Herter to persuade or dragoon the helmsmen's committee to unite on a planned course.

The main disagreements, as everyone knows, lie between the British on the one hand, and the French, West Germans and Americans on the other hand. Given this lineup, Herter can choose between two different tactics. He can transform the present tacit accord between the French, West Germans and Americans into a detailed understanding, involving solid, point-by-point commitments. And he can then tell the British members of the helmsmen's committee:

"This is the course the majority are firmly determined to steer, and if you don't like it, then leave the helm (and the responsibility and risk that go with it) to us."

Or else Herter can choose a middle course between the ideas of the British and the ideas of the French and West Germans; and he can then go to work in the Dulles manner to impose his own views on everyone else. Either way, a point will be reached when Chris Herter will have to be authoritative instead of pleasant, stern instead of nice.

Those who have known Herter longer than his new allied coworkers have little doubt that his amiable exterior conceals more than enough iron to pass this sort of test. He was almost certainly wise not to try the test at Paris. But the fact remains that the test has yet to be passed.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The yearly battle in Congress over foreign aid is with us again. This year, as in years past, the principal fight centers around how much will be cut from President Eisenhower's recommendation.

But there is also a new element. There is growing opposition in both parties not only to the size, but to the form foreign aid has taken. Some influential Democrats are advocating a stepped-up developmental loan program to take the place of the sporadic programs of economic grants and loans.

The Eisenhower Administration itself was successful in proposing a developmental loan fund last year. Presumably, it would not frown on an extension of the program this year, provided it is not made at the expense of other programs already in effect.

Foreign aid is the most difficult appropriation to get through Congress. This has been true regardless of the political party in control of the Administration. Former President Harry S. Truman experienced much the same recalcitrance in Congress that Mr. Eisenhower is now experiencing.

In past years there have been Congressional efforts to cut the program in half, and usually a cut ranging from 20 to 25 per cent has been successful. Last year an unexpected crisis in the Middle East strengthened the President's hand just as Congress was considering the foreign aid appropriation. This year it is not improbable that another crisis, either in Berlin, or in the Middle East will help him temper Congress' fund cutting mood.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The three stood in the paddock talking. The late sun made the track look like an old print—high-stepping pacers and trotters with feet flying under arched necks; little monkeys of men in rubber-tired carts. Jim Sullivan squinted at it and dug his sport shoe into the new grass. "How you gonna do it in the second, Billy?"

Sullivan looked like a prosperous saloonkeeper. He wore—from north to south—a molasses straw hat, a hound's tooth check suit, white tie, sun lamp skin, neon nose, and blue b-b eyes. Mr. Sullivan owns a tavern in Sea Bright, N. J. and, whatever profit he earns is blown on trotting races. The step from bar flies to horse flies is a short one.

William Haughton gave the matter some thought. He is a solid citizen who trains and drives the finest horses in trotting. When he arrived at Yonkers Raceway, he had put behind him a year in which he had won $861,000 in purses as a driver, and the horses he trained had earned $1,040,000.

Mr. Haughton has wavy hair and muscular hands. He looked into the distance towards the Yonkers grandstand and he said: "I don't think much of my chances. The Scotchman is too good."

"You can catch him," said Irving Rudd, the track press agent. "If anyone can do it . . ." Haughton shook his head. He'd be in there, trying, but his horse, Actor Pick, was over a second slower than the Scotchman for the mile.

A young and pretty blonde arrived. The men lifted their hats. This was Mrs. William Haughton, wife of the top trainer and driver. She heard the last part of the conversation. She is the mother of Billy 6, Peter 4, and Tommy 2. The Haughtons live in a big house at Brookville, L. I., befitting a man who used to rub horses for $7 a week and who now makes over $100,000 each year without strain.

"Mr. Sullivan," the lady said, "the best you can do is to listen to my husband's selection, and then go back to your seat and pick your own. Billy couldn't pick a winner if he was running alone."

Sullivan went back across the long infield, his rocking horse gait synchronized with Irving Rudd's. Mr. Sullivan growls, even when he is happy, which is seldom. "A guy is the leading driver in the whole world and he picks another horse." He shook his head sadly. "I don't think he could pick his old man out of a roomful of Orientals."

"You wanted an honest answer," said Rudd. "It would have been easy for Haughton to name Actor Pick. He trained that horse and he'll be driving him tonight, but he thinks that the Scotchman is a little too fast for him. Stanley Dancer is driving The Scotchman.

"A good man," Sullivan said. "A very good man." He went back up into the clubhouse, using the escalator, and down to his front table behind the big glass. The lady at the table had a good figure, and wore a hat by Mr. John.

"Did you meet your hero?" she said. He nodded through the smoke of a short cigar. "Yeah. I met him. A lot of good it did me. I pick him to win the second and he picks somebody else."

The lady sipped her scotch through her teeth. "You can pick 'em better than the drivers, Jim. Who do you like?" Jim Sullivan nodded. His date smiled at two men passing by. "Isn't it a grand evening?" she said, giving them the big broad smile. They nodded and kept moving.

"I like Rex Hi Le," said Jim. His date wasn't listening. "He's been out five times this year. He won two, placed in two and came in third once. Think I'll tap him with a hundred."

Sullivan and his lady had dinner. The roast beef was rich and thick and the baked potato wore a silver coat. The sun died like a ham actor and the lights came on. Sullivan had Tee Bone in the first. Great Knight won it.

In the second, he watched the eight horses follow the big white Chrysler with the open arms. Then the car sped off and the trotters were on their own. Sullivan and his date roared through the window for his Rex Hi Le. He never stood a chance. The Scotchman came in second. Haughton won it on Actor Pick and paid $12 . . .

Taking Proper Care Of Rheumatoid Arthritis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A dozen or more rheumatoid arthritis remedies are capable of bringing comfort and relief of pain. But treatment is difficult and prolonged and there is no specific cure. The majority of arthritics get along well so long as they continue to take their medicine. Symptoms return in some when treatment is stopped; in others, improvement may last for months or years.

This brings us to a point that may prove helpful. Up to 50 per cent of persons with rheumatoid arthritis get well spontaneously. This means that the body is capable of building up enough resistance to overcome the disease.

Just how or why this happens is not known but all arthritics and those with arthritic tendencies should do what they can to maintain good health in the hope that spontaneous cure will take place. This is encouraged through a well directed daily regimen of living, including periods of proper exercise balanced by adequate rest.

A program of home physical therapy — warm baths, massage, and gentle manipulation — will keep the joints flexible and the muscles in good tone. (Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflets on arthritis if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies letter to this newspaper.)

A properly balanced diet that supplies all the basic foods is helpful. This means a daily serving of meat, fish, or poultry; a green and a leafy vegetable; and fruit. One egg a day, a glass of milk, and a cereal will provide the essentials but other foods may be added, taking care to avoid obesity.

Never fall for fad diets that stress expensive items that are no different basically from the foods out of which they are made.

Diversional activities keep the mind alert and enhance the feeling of well being. No one likes to be sick. The ill person receives little sympathy when he is demanding, mean, or nasty. The same applies to those who give up or who crave self-pity. Conversely; the individual who is cheerful and willing to help himself despite adversities inspires admiration.

Meanwhile, new anti-arthritic agents will come on the market. If medication is needed, they should be tried. But many arthritics do well on aspirin, a drug that has withstood the test of time. A group of British investigators, at the end of a three-year interval, found little choice between cortisone and aspirin therapy in easing symptoms, evoking remission, and influencing the natural course of rheumatoid arthritis.

TOMORROW: Desensitization against insect stings.

SHALLOW BREATHING

S. J. writes: Can shallow breathing (short breaths) while sleeping lead to fatigue on getting up in the morning?

REPLY

No. Deep labored breathing causes fatigue but not the type of respiration you describe.

NOT TYPICAL

G. F. writes: What is meant by atypical tubercle bacilli?

REPLY

Certain mycobacteria that do not conform to the typical pattern of tuberculosis, have been recovered from victims of this disease. These strains are being studied in various laboratories to understand their relationship to typical tubercle bacilli.

LEG CIRCULATION

T. Y. writes: Is Buerger's disease the same as hardening of the arteries of the legs?

REPLY

No, but both conditions lead to disturbed circulation to the legs. Our leaflet on poor arterial circulation covers these topics. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet.

NOTHING TO IT

R. L. writes: Is it true that the use of white sugar robs the body of calcium and vitamin B?

REPLY

No. Poor old refined sugar takes a beating from the food faddists.

NUTRITIOUS DRINK

Mrs. J. writes: Does cocoa have any special value for a person convalescing from an illness?

REPLY

Cocoa is stimulating and high in calories.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A flying saucer — yep, another one — landed smack in front of a big New York newspaper office and the oddest looking pilot yet stepped out into sunshine. "Where do you hail from?" asked the owner of the newspaper who, as is his wont, was loading copies of that morning's issue on to a truck. "I am the editor of a paper out in the stratosphere," squeaked the man from the saucer, "but space does not permit me to say where."

A timely warning from Corey Ford (in his new book, "Has Anybody Seen Me Lately?"): 'Slowly but surely, the wellsprings of humor are drying up today. Derision is taken for disloyalty. Political satire is extinct, personal caricature is libel, parody is illegal, dialect jokes are strictly taboo. 'You can't even kid about the man-eating shark these days,' Franklin P. Adams has noted, 'or the sharkskin-suit manufacturers will land on you like a ton of bricks.' "

The Public's Stake In Steel

Steel wage negotiations are now under way in New York to the accompaniment of a warning from President Eisenhower that the government may be forced to intervene if the industry and the union cannot settle their dispute without setting off a new round of wage-price inflation.

Mr. Eisenhower did not spell out what he could or would do, and there is certainly doubt on this point. There is nothing in the law to prevent the union from seeking and the industry from granting wage boosts so high that a round of price increases will be inevitable, and no one expects the President to ask Congress to impose wage-price controls no matter what eventuates at the bargaining table.

What Mr. Eisenhower's warning amounts to is a public proclamation that the public and the nation as a whole have a heavy stake in this round of private bargaining. Steel is so basic a commodity that an increase in steel prices can set off a wave of price increases all through the economy and can have a serious effect on exports as well.

A nation acutely conscious of the evils of inflation and the power of unions will be watching more closely than ever this year what happens in steel.

Steelworkers, as well as management, would do well to remember the President's warning that there is more at stake in their bargaining than their private affairs. The public welfare is concerned and public pressure will weigh heavily against either side to the dispute which ignores it.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Shop Talk

In the medical profession, doctors used to write prescriptions in a mysterious script which even pharmacists had to guess at. The patient, of course, was hopelessly mystified. Today, most of the medications of great value come clearly labelled and if the doctor or patient demands "original bottle" or "original label," the mystery is all gone. The details of medication are clear.

However, in the so-called intellectual disciplines, the immediate objective of the learned is to state a case in language which no one is supposed to understand who is not of that particular discipline. I take, at random, a sentence from a study on gangs—a subject with which I have nearly 60 years of familiarity. Says the author:

". . . However, we are especially interested in a third possibility, namely, that in the majority of cases psychogenic and sub-cultural factors blend in a single casual process, as pollen and a particular bodily constitution work together to produce hay fever . . ."

Now what this man says is very simple. Translated into non-discipline English, he means heredity and environment can combine to produce a juvenile delinquent. If he said it as simply as that, he would be just a simple person, not an intellectual. On the other hand, nobody would question the intellectual status of William James. But note the simplicity of language:

". . . The earlier men were hunting men, and to hunt a neighboring tribe, kill the males, loot the village and possess the females, was the most profitable, as well as the most exciting, way of living . . ."

Or, if one wishes another example, there, is the classical essay by Thomas Huxley on "Science and Culture" in which he says:

"Once upon a time, a boy, with nothing to depend upon but his own vigorous nature, was thrown into the thick of the struggle for existence in the midst of a great manufacturing population. He seems to have had a hard fight, inasmuch as, by the time he was thirty years of age, his total disposable funds amounted to twenty pounds.

"Nevertheless, middle life found him giving proof of his comprehension of the practical problems he had been roughly called upon to solve, by a career of remarkable prosperity."

I could go on and on citing from the great masters of knowledge to show that the truly intellectual minds could state their cases with simplicity of language. And speaking about governments or gangs or corporations or anything that requires unity of action and compromise of private positions, let us turn to the greatest of all intellects, Aristotle, for plain and forthright speech:

". . . In the first place there must be a union of those who cannot exist without each other; namely, of male and female, that the race may continue . . . and of natural ruler and subject, that both may be preserved . . ."

In a word, for convenience or joint operations or even for the joy of living, there are those who must gang up and join forces. And that, of course, can produce a gang as well as a marriage, a rumble as well as a war.

The intellectual's excuse for complexity of speech is that he seeks precision and therefore cannot use loose language, as for instance, "We have now to consider what and what kind of goverament is suitable to what and what kind of men . . ."

The confusing language of some intellectuals is unquestionably due to the complexity of their processes of thought. They are not as sure of their premise as Aristotle was. The social scientists particularly encounter difficulties because their subjects cross each other, sociology having much to do with economics and anthropology and history and geography. In a word, the disciplines are compartmentalized phases of the whole of human knowledge and he who specializes too narrowly often knows too little about his subject to know anything at all. Herter's pleasant manners, his easiness as a colleague, his firm grasp of the problems in hand, his thorough knowledge of the massive dossiers behind each problem, were the chief points noted. But against these entries on the credit side of the ledger, there was a major entry on the debit side.

"He did not impose himself. He was not the chief." That was the substance of the unfavorable comment behind the scenes. It is ironical, but it is significant too, that the other Western allies would have felt happier and more at home, if Herter had been rather less nice and a good deal more bossy.

Even among the unwavering admirers of John Foster Dulles, none would choose to describe him as a "nice man." As a negotiator, Dulles was too domineering, too crafty and too ruthless for the adjective, "nice." But even the many Western leaders and officials who formerly detested Foster Dulles look back with real nostalgia to the domineering Dulles ways.

The plain truth is that a great many Western leaders found it highly convenient to be driven to do this or to oppose that by Secretary Dulles; and then to go home and complain about Dulles' "rigidity." Dulles served the Alliance as what the biologists call an exoskeleton. He acted as a kind of external stiffening which relieved other backbones of any undue strain.

Precisely this quality was missed in Herter at the Paris meeting. In his quiet, polite, considerate way, Herter worked as an equal among equals, earning general admiration, as above noted, for his knowledge, clear views and tact. But working as an equal among equals was not really what the others wanted him to do. Furthermore, the chances are that Herter cannot safely continue this approach at Geneva. Here the paper over the cracks in the Western Alliance is bound to wear pretty thin, if not to be torn off altogether.

Six months have passed since the beginning of the Berlin crisis, without producing any solid Western agreement on any really Critical point. There is agreement, of course, on what to say and how to say it at the outset here in Geneva. But after all the meetings and working parties and position papers, there is no real agreement on how far to go in offering concessions to the Soviets; or on what counter-concessions to ask; or on what to do if the Soviets are not satisfied with the concessions that are offered.

In sum, the ship of the West is being steered by a committee of helmsmen, who have widely different ideas about the right course to steer when the expected high gale begins to blow. This is an inherently dangerous situation. It can become much more dangerous, if it is not cured fairly soon. And because of the special American role in the Western Alliance, it is up to Herter to persuade or dragoon the helmsmen's committee to unite on a planned course.

The main disagreements, as everyone knows, lie between the British on the one hand, and the French, West Germans and Americans on the other hand. Given this lineup, Herter can choose between two different tactics. He can transform the present tacit accord between the French, West Germans and Americans into a detailed understanding, involving solid, point-by-point commitments. And he can then tell the British members of the helmsmen's committee:

"This is the course the majority are firmly determined to steer, and if you don't like it, then leave the helm (and the responsibility and risk that go with it) to us."

Or else Herter can choose a middle course between the ideas of the British and the ideas of the French and West Germans; and he can then go to work in the Dulles manner to impose his own views on everyone else. Either way, a point will be reached when Chris Herter will have to be authoritative instead of pleasant, stern instead of nice.

Those who have known Herter longer than his new allied coworkers have little doubt that his amiable exterior conceals more than enough iron to pass this sort of test. He was almost certainly wise not to try the test at Paris. But the fact remains that the test has yet to be passed.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The yearly battle in Congress over foreign aid is with us again. This year, as in years past, the principal fight centers around how much will be cut from President Eisenhower's recommendation.

But there is also a new element. There is growing opposition in both parties not only to the size, but to the form foreign aid has taken. Some influential Democrats are advocating a stepped-up developmental loan program to take the place of the sporadic programs of economic grants and loans.

The Eisenhower Administration itself was successful in proposing a developmental loan fund last year. Presumably, it would not frown on an extension of the program this year, provided it is not made at the expense of other programs already in effect.

Foreign aid is the most difficult appropriation to get through Congress. This has been true regardless of the political party in control of the Administration. Former President Harry S. Truman experienced much the same recalcitrance in Congress that Mr. Eisenhower is now experiencing.

In past years there have been Congressional efforts to cut the program in half, and usually a cut ranging from 20 to 25 per cent has been successful. Last year an unexpected crisis in the Middle East strengthened the President's hand just as Congress was considering the foreign aid appropriation. This year it is not improbable that another crisis, either in Berlin, or in the Middle East will help him temper Congress' fund cutting mood.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The three stood in the paddock talking. The late sun made the track look like an old print—high-stepping pacers and trotters with feet flying under arched necks; little monkeys of men in rubber-tired carts. Jim Sullivan squinted at it and dug his sport shoe into the new grass. "How you gonna do it in the second, Billy?"

Sullivan looked like a prosperous saloonkeeper. He wore—from north to south—a molasses straw hat, a hound's tooth check suit, white tie, sun lamp skin, neon nose, and blue b-b eyes. Mr. Sullivan owns a tavern in Sea Bright, N. J. and, whatever profit he earns is blown on trotting races. The step from bar flies to horse flies is a short one.

William Haughton gave the matter some thought. He is a solid citizen who trains and drives the finest horses in trotting. When he arrived at Yonkers Raceway, he had put behind him a year in which he had won $861,000 in purses as a driver, and the horses he trained had earned $1,040,000.

Mr. Haughton has wavy hair and muscular hands. He looked into the distance towards the Yonkers grandstand and he said: "I don't think much of my chances. The Scotchman is too good."

"You can catch him," said Irving Rudd, the track press agent. "If anyone can do it . . ." Haughton shook his head. He'd be in there, trying, but his horse, Actor Pick, was over a second slower than the Scotchman for the mile.

A young and pretty blonde arrived. The men lifted their hats. This was Mrs. William Haughton, wife of the top trainer and driver. She heard the last part of the conversation. She is the mother of Billy 6, Peter 4, and Tommy 2. The Haughtons live in a big house at Brookville, L. I., befitting a man who used to rub horses for $7 a week and who now makes over $100,000 each year without strain.

"Mr. Sullivan," the lady said, "the best you can do is to listen to my husband's selection, and then go back to your seat and pick your own. Billy couldn't pick a winner if he was running alone."

Sullivan went back across the long infield, his rocking horse gait synchronized with Irving Rudd's. Mr. Sullivan growls, even when he is happy, which is seldom. "A guy is the leading driver in the whole world and he picks another horse." He shook his head sadly. "I don't think he could pick his old man out of a roomful of Orientals."

"You wanted an honest answer," said Rudd. "It would have been easy for Haughton to name Actor Pick. He trained that horse and he'll be driving him tonight, but he thinks that the Scotchman is a little too fast for him. Stanley Dancer is driving The Scotchman.

"A good man," Sullivan said. "A very good man." He went back up into the clubhouse, using the escalator, and down to his front table behind the big glass. The lady at the table had a good figure, and wore a hat by Mr. John.

"Did you meet your hero?" she said. He nodded through the smoke of a short cigar. "Yeah. I met him. A lot of good it did me. I pick him to win the second and he picks somebody else."

The lady sipped her scotch through her teeth. "You can pick 'em better than the drivers, Jim. Who do you like?" Jim Sullivan nodded. His date smiled at two men passing by. "Isn't it a grand evening?" she said, giving them the big broad smile. They nodded and kept moving.

"I like Rex Hi Le," said Jim. His date wasn't listening. "He's been out five times this year. He won two, placed in two and came in third once. Think I'll tap him with a hundred."

Sullivan and his lady had dinner. The roast beef was rich and thick and the baked potato wore a silver coat. The sun died like a ham actor and the lights came on. Sullivan had Tee Bone in the first. Great Knight won it.

In the second, he watched the eight horses follow the big white Chrysler with the open arms. Then the car sped off and the trotters were on their own. Sullivan and his date roared through the window for his Rex Hi Le. He never stood a chance. The Scotchman came in second. Haughton won it on Actor Pick and paid $12 . . .

Taking Proper Care Of Rheumatoid Arthritis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A dozen or more rheumatoid arthritis remedies are capable of bringing comfort and relief of pain. But treatment is difficult and prolonged and there is no specific cure. The majority of arthritics get along well so long as they continue to take their medicine. Symptoms return in some when treatment is stopped; in others, improvement may last for months or years.

This brings us to a point that may prove helpful. Up to 50 per cent of persons with rheumatoid arthritis get well spontaneously. This means that the body is capable of building up enough resistance to overcome the disease.

Just how or why this happens is not known but all arthritics and those with arthritic tendencies should do what they can to maintain good health in the hope that spontaneous cure will take place. This is encouraged through a well directed daily regimen of living, including periods of proper exercise balanced by adequate rest.

A program of home physical therapy — warm baths, massage, and gentle manipulation — will keep the joints flexible and the muscles in good tone. (Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflets on arthritis if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies letter to this newspaper.)

A properly balanced diet that supplies all the basic foods is helpful. This means a daily serving of meat, fish, or poultry; a green and a leafy vegetable; and fruit. One egg a day, a glass of milk, and a cereal will provide the essentials but other foods may be added, taking care to avoid obesity.

Never fall for fad diets that stress expensive items that are no different basically from the foods out of which they are made.

Diversional activities keep the mind alert and enhance the feeling of well being. No one likes to be sick. The ill person receives little sympathy when he is demanding, mean, or nasty. The same applies to those who give up or who crave self-pity. Conversely, the individual who is cheerful and willing to help himself despite adversities inspires admiration.

Meanwhile, new anti-arthritic agents will come on the market. If medication is needed, they should be tried. But many arthritics do well on aspirin, a drug that has withstood the test of time. A group of British investigators, at the end of a three-year interval, found little choice between cortisone and aspirin therapy in easing symptoms, evoking remission, and influencing the natural course of rheumatoid arthritis.

SHALLOW BREATHING

S. J. writes: Can shallow breathing (short breaths) while sleeping lead to fatigue on getting up in the morning?

REPLY

No. Deep labored breathing causes fatigue but not the type of respiration you describe.

NOT TYPICAL

G. F. writes: What is meant by atypical tubercle bacilli?

REPLY

Certain mycobacteria that do not conform to the typical pattern of tuberculosis, have been recovered from victims of this disease. These strains are being studied in various laboratories to understand their relationship to typical tubercle bacilli.

LEG CIRCULATION

T. Y. writes: Is Buerger's disease the same as hardening of the arteries of the legs?

REPLY

No, but both conditions lead to disturbed circulation to the legs. Our leaflet on poor arterial circulation covers these topics. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet.

NOTHING TO IT

R. L. writes: Is it true that the use of white sugar robs the body of calcium and vitamin B?

REPLY

No. Poor old refined sugar takes a beating from the food faddists.

NUTRITIOUS DRINK

Mrs. J. writes: Does cocoa have any special value for a person convalescing from an illness?

REPLY

Cocoa is stimulating and high in calories.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A flying saucer — yep, another one — landed smack in front of a big New York newspaper office and the oddest looking pilot yet stepped out into sunshine. "Where do you hail from?" asked the owner of the newspaper who, as is his wont, was loading copies of that morning's issue on to a truck. "I am the editor of a paper out in the stratosphere," squeaked the man from the saucer, "but space does not permit me to say where."

A timely warning from Corey Ford (in his new book, "Has Anybody Seen Me Lately?"): 'Slowly but surely, the wellsprings of humor are drying up today. Derision is taken for disloyalty. Political satire is extinct, personal caricature is libel, parody is illegal, dialect jokes are strictly taboo. 'You can't even kid about the man-eating shark these days,' Franklin P. Adams has noted, 'or the sharkskin-suit manufacturers will land on you like a ton of bricks.' "

Music Students Plan Concert At Frostburg

College Program Set For Monday

FROSTBURG—The instrumental groups of the Frostburg State Teachers College music department will appear in their annual spring concert to be held at Compton Auditorium on Monday, May 18 at 8:15 p.m. open to the public for which there will be no admission charge.

The concert band, dance band and small jazz combo will be assisted by the Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Charles I. Sager of the college music department faculty. This select choral group will sing selections from "South Pacific" and will join with the dance band in presenting a specially arranged number for the two groups, "Great Day." This was prepared by Dr. Cole, director of instrumental music and department chairman, for the group's recent tour.

One of the highlights of the first portion of the program will be Miss Wanda Tate, trumpeter, playing "The Magic Trumpet" by James Burke. Mr. Burke has long been the featured soloist with the famous Goldman Band in New York. Dr. Cole and Mr. Burke are friends of long standing. The copy of this solo from which Miss Tate studied was personally dedicated to her by Mr. Burke. Miss Tate took her high school music work with Robert Nutter while she was a student at Fort Hill High School.

David Wilson, trombonist, will be featured in a specially arranged number by Dr. Cole, "Don't Blame Me," to the accompaniment of the college dance band. Mr. Wilson, a sophomore, was formerly a student at Beall High School in Frostburg, where his musical training was under Frank Munson.

A small jazz combo under the direction of John Ritchie, freshman, formerly of Allegany High School, will present "Line For Lyons," as adapted by Ritchie. Others in the group include Robert Hardman, Cumberland; John Lester, Cumberland; John Zink, Cumberland and William Twigg, Eckhart.

The concert band portion of the program includes a "Symphonic Suite" by Clifton Williams, "Chorale Preludes" by Brahms, as arranged for band by Guenther, and "Wanderer's Call Overture" by Guentzel. Other lighter numbers, including several famous Sousa marches will be presented.

One of the features of the concert will be the presentation of the yearly service awards to eligible band members by Dr. Cole.

Appointment Made By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John A. Field Jr., 49, West Virginia state tax commissioner, was appointed Monday by President Eisenhower to be U. S. District Judge for Southern West Virginia.

Approval by the Senate of the nomination was viewed as a formality since West Virginias two Democratic senators, Jennings Randolph and Robert Byrd, have no objection to Field.

Field, 49-year-old Republican, will fill a vacancy created by the death last August of Judge Ben Moore. The southern district judge has regular court terms at Charleston, Huntington, Bluefield and Beckley, and on occasion sits at Lewisburg.

Field has been tax commissioner of his state since 1957 when he was appointed shortly after the inauguration of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

Field called his appointment to the $22,500-a-year, lifetime post "an honor."

Moore died of a heart attack while on a golfing vacation at Hot Springs, Va., last summer after serving 17 years as judge of the 24-county southern District.

Field is a 1935 graduate of the University of Virginia law school. He obtained his bachelor's degree at Hampden-Snyder College (Va.) in 1932. He started law practice at Charleston in 1935 after his graduation from law school.

Before being named tax commissioner, Field sought election in 1956 as state attorney general and prior to that served two terms on the Charleston city council.

It was reported that Field probably would be succeeded as tax commissioner by his assistant, Donald C. Carman of Brooke County.

Both Randolph and Byrd told newsmen they would vote for the confirmation of Field once his nomination clears the Senate's judiciary committee.

"I will not interpose objection to the nomination," Randolph said. "If and when his (Field's) name is presented to the Senate, I will vote for confirmation."

Byrd said he had "no objection to Mr. Field" and would vote for his confirmation when his name is presented to the Senate.

Mr. Blake also introduced J. Orville Kefauver, former principal of the Mt. Savage School and Lester B. Reed of the House of Delegates.

Bumper West Virginia Apple Production Seen

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia apparently will be blessed with another bumper apple crop this year.

Unless there is some unusual occurrence—such as a late freeze which could come any time this month — officials of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service look for another above-normal yield.

Under normal circumstances, growers would have expected a decline this year because most apples are biennials. However, bloom in the Eastern counties of Berkeley, Jefferson, Hardy, Hampshire and Morgan was unusually heavy.

"Bloom alone is not the criteria for an apple crop, however, it's a good starter," agricultural Statistician Alan R. Miller said Tuesday.

Miller said a commercial grower is happy to get 25 bushels of apples from each tree. His success depends on the 'drop' of bloom during the month of June.

Miller explained that part of the blooms drop from the trees during the "June drop period" when there are normally 50,000 to 100,000 blooms on a mature tree.

Miller warned there could still be a killing freeze this month but indications point to a second bumper crop of apples in as many years.

A carry-over of 179,000 bushels of apples in storage from 1958 is expected to be absorbed during the summer months before the next crop is harvested.

Music Students Plan Concert At Frostburg

College Program Set For Monday

FROSTBURG—The instrumental groups of the Frostburg State Teachers College music department will appear in their annual spring concert to be held at Compton Auditorium on Monday, May 18 at 8:15 p.m. open to the public for which there will be no admission charge.

The concert band, dance band and small jazz combo will be assisted by the Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Charles I. Sager of the college music department faculty. This select choral group will sing selections from "South Pacific" and will join with the dance band in presenting a specially arranged number for the two groups, "Great Day." This was prepared by Dr. Cole, director of instrumental music and department chairman, for the group's recent tour.

One of the highlights of the first portion of the program will be Miss Wanda Tate, trumpeter, playing "The Magic Trumpet" by James Burke. Mr. Burke has long been the featured soloist with the famous Goldman Band in New York. Dr. Cole and Mr. Burke are friends of long standing. The copy of this solo from which Miss Tate studied was personally dedicated to her by Mr. Burke. Miss Tate took her high school music work with Robert Nutter while she was a student at Fort Hill High School.

David Wilson, trombonist, will be featured in a specially arranged number by Dr. Cole, "Don't Blame Me," to the accompaniment of the college dance band. Mr. Wilson, a sophomore, was formerly a student at Beall High School in Frostburg, where his musical training was under Frank Munson.

A small jazz combo under the direction of John Ritchie, freshman, formerly of Allegany High School, will present "Line For Lyons," as adapted by Ritchie. Others in the group include Robert Hardman, Cumberland; John Lester, Cumberland, John Zink, Cumberland and William Twigg, Eckhart.

The concert band portion of the program includes a "Symphonic Suite" by Clifton Williams, "Chorale Preludes" by Brahms, as arranged for band by Guenther, and "Wanderer's Call Overture" by Guentzel. Other lighter numbers, including several famous Sousa marches will be presented.

One of the features of the concert will be the presentation of the yearly service awards to eligible band members by Dr. Cole.

Appointment Made By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John A. Field Jr., 49, West Virginia state tax commissioner, was appointed Monday by President Eisenhower to be U. S. District Judge for Southern West Virginia.

Approval by the Senate of the nomination was viewed as a formality since West Virginias two Democratic senators, Jennings Randolph and Robert Byrd, have no objection to Field.

Field, 49-year-old Republican, will fill a vacancy created by the death last August of Judge Ben Moore. The southern district judge has regular court terms at Charleston, Huntington, Bluefield and Beckley, and on occasion sits at Lewisburg.

Field has been tax commissioner of his state since 1957 when he was appointed shortly after the inauguration of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

Field called his appointment to the $22,500-a-year, lifetime post "an honor."

Moore died of a heart attack while on a golfing vacation at Hot Springs, Va., last summer after serving 17 years as judge of the 24-county southern District.

Field is a 1935 graduate of the University of Virginia law school. He obtained his bachelor's degree at Hampden-Snyder College (Va.) in 1932. He started law practice at Charleston in 1935 after his graduation from law school.

Before being named tax commissioner, Field sought election in 1956 as state attorney general and prior to that served two terms on the Charleston city council.

It was reported that Field probably would be succeeded as tax commissioner by his assistant, Donald C. Carman of Brooke County.

Both Randolph and Byrd told newsmen they would vote for the confirmation of Field once his nomination clears the Senate's judiciary committee.

"I will not interpose objection to the nomination," Randolph said. "If and when his (Field's) name is presented to the Senate, I will vote for confirmation."

Byrd said he had "no objection to Mr. Field" and would vote for his confirmation when his name is presented to the Senate.

Bumper West Virginia Apple Production Seen

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia apparently will be blessed with another bumper apple crop this year.

Unless there is some unusual occurrence—such as a late freeze which could come any time this month — officials of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service look for another above-normal yield.

Under normal circumstances, growers would have expected a decline this year because most apples are biennials. However, bloom in the Eastern counties of Berkeley, Jefferson, Hardy, Hampshire and Morgan was unusually heavy.

"Bloom alone is not the criteria for an apple crop, however, it's a good starter," agricultural Statistician Alan R. Miller said Tuesday.

Miller said a commercial grower is happy to get 25 bushels of apples from each tree. His success depends on the 'drop' of bloom during the month of June.

Miller explained that part of the blooms drop from the trees during the "June drop period" when there are normally 50,000 to 100,000 blooms on a mature tree.

Miller warned there could still be a killing freeze this month but indications point to a second bumper crop of apples in as many years.

A carry-over of 179,000 bushels of apples in storage from 1958 is expected to be absorbed during the summer months before the next crop is harvested.

The newly elected officers were installed in a ceremony by Mrs. Harry Bender of Flintstone, president of the Hagerstown district of the Society.

Preceding the election and installation the business session was in charge of Mrs. Hilda Phillips, Lonaconing.

Minutes of the Fall Conference were read by Mrs. Chester Yates, secretary-treasurer from Vale Summit.

Conference, district and zone leaders were introduced, with each giving a short talk. Participating were Dr. Lillian Compton, secretary of student work; Mrs. Harry Bender, president of the Hagerstown district; Mrs. Finley Thompson, vice president of the district; Miss Lillie Rockwell, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. William Beale, secretary of Christian social relations; Mrs. Robert M. Mt. Savage High Scores 8th Straight League Victory

Allegany	1	6	.143
Flintstone	0	8	.000

Exploding for five runs in the fourth inning, Mt. Savage High School's Indians defeated the Bruce High School Bulldogs yesterday at Westernport by the score of 5-2 and lengthened their winning streak to eight games in the Allegany County High School Baseball League.

The victory was the eighth in nine starts for Coach Joe Carter's Indians and gave them a two-game lead over LaSalle and Fort Hill, deadlocked for the runner-up spot with 6-3 records. The setback snapped Bruce High School's four game winning skein Donald Lowery opened the fifth inning by slamming a home run. Leroy Morris' double with the bases loaded drove in two runs and Jack Lowery hammered across two more tallies with a timely two-bagger in the big inning.

Morris Hitting .621

Leroy Morris, top hitter in the County League, upped his average to .621 for the season when he led the Mt. Savage attack with a double and three singles for a perfect day at the plate. In nine games played to date he has obtained 18 hits in 29 official trips.

"Chuck" Winebrenner started on the mound for the Indians but was forced to withdraw during the rousing fourth when he was injured sliding. Jack Lowery pitched the last four frames for Mt. Savage, scattered five hits, yielded one run and made his record 3-0 for the campaign.

The defeat was charged to Dick Wilson, who replaced Robert L. Wilson on the mound for the Bulldogs in the third inning.

Valley Defeats Beall

Coach John Meyers' club nicked the offerings of Jim Gardner for 14 safeties, including doubles by Roger Wilson, George Lauder and "Tippy" Metts. Wilson batted in three of the Knights' runs and had three hits in four trips.

Jim Getty started on the mound for Valley, worked six innings, and was credited with the win. He yielded eight hits, fanned six and walked four. Lefty Wayne Johnson hurled the final inning for Valley.

Killebrew Hits Two Homers As Senators Win

7th Inning Rally Beats Tigers, 7-4

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harmon Killebrew clouted his 11th and 12th homers of the season Tuesday night—marking the fourth time in 11 days he has homered twice in one game—to lead the Washington Senators to a 7-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Killebrew drove in five of Washington's runs, hitting his first homer off starter Frank Lary with one on in the sixth inning and his second off reliever Ray Narleski in the seventh.

The Senators went ahead for good when they scored four runs in the seventh to knock out Lary and take a 7-4 lead.

J. W. Porter started the rally with a double and after Dave Sisler replaced Lary, two walks filled the bases. Bob Allison's sacrifice fly tied the score at 4-4 and Killebrew then connected for his second homer of the game, good for three more runs.

Detroit jumped in front with two runs in the first inning on Eddie Yost's single, Larry Osborne's double and Al Kaline's single, then led 3-0 when Ted Lepcio hit his second homer of the season with the bases empty in the fifth.

Killebrew's first homer of the game, which followed Albie Pearson's single and Allison's double in the sixth, tied the score at 3-3 but the Tigers went ahead again in the seventh when Lou Berberet's double drove in Rocky Bridges.

Sisler suffered his first loss of the season.

Indians Edge Yankees, 7-6; Colavito Stars

Rocky Gets 4 Hits; Woody Held Homers

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rocky Colavito smashed four hits totaling 9 bases and Woody Held hit a two-run homer Tuesday night as the Cleveland Indians beat the New York Yankees, 7-6, for their third straight victory of the season over the world champions.

Cal McLish became the American League's first five-game winner of the year with the help of a sensational relief job by rookie Jim Perry, who struck out four of the seven men he faced, including Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard with the tying run aboard in the ninth inning.

A crowd of 34,671 saw three Yankee errors help the Indians score four unearned runs. Catcher Yogi Berra committed one of the errors, ending a record streak of 148 consecutive games without a miscue.

Colavito knocked in two runs with his eighth homer, two doubles and a single, and Held cracked his sixth homer to highlight a third inning in which the Indians scored five runs.

Two errors by Tony Kubek after Held's homer, a double by Colavito, a walk and a single by Russ Nixon completed the big frame.

McLish, who has beaten the Yankees four straight times and never lost to them in his career, was tagged for a run in the second inning and then yielded homers to Mantle and Howard in the third. Berra brought the Yankees to within one run of a tie with a two-run seventh inning homer and Cleveland Manager Joe Gordon brought in Perry at the start of the eighth.

Perry retired the side in order in the eighth, striking out Enos Slaughter and Andy Carey. Kubek opened the ninth with a double but Perry, a six-foot, four-inch fastballer, struck out Mantle, retired Berra on a pop fly and fanned Howard.

The Knights of Columbus took over sole possession of first place in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday by scoring their second straight victory over the previously unbeaten Ritter A. C. at Stitcher Field by the score of 6-0.

Jimmy Angellatta started on the mound for the Knights before Al Sheetz arrived on the scene and yielded the only hit—a Texas League double by Often in the first inning. Sheetz came on in the third, pitched hitless ball for five innings, fanned six and posted his second win of the season.

George Geatz smacked a pair of two baggers to account for two of the Knights' seven blows. Donnie Farrell and Sheetz also rapped doubles.

In other league action, the V.F.W. shook a two-game losing streak by beating Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 4-2, at Post Field, and the Loyal Order of Moose scored two runs in the top of the eighth to nose out the Celanese A.A., 4-2.

Manager Cecil Grimes socked a homer, Ted Durbin and Mil Dean obtained two hits each and Phil Reuschel excelled at short for the Vets. "Pete" Elliott held the Glassmen to four hits, one a two-bagger by Clay Ingram.

Pete Cecil's triple drove in the deciding run to give the Moose an extra inning triumph over the Silkmen at Celanese Field. Dick Klavuhn who replaced Hull in the 6th inning got credit for the win. Warnick, Celanese relief hurler, was the loser. Cecil and Keyser shared six of the Moose team's eight blows while Cunningham had two safeties for the Silks. The scores:

Morris Hitting .621

Leroy Morris, top hitter in the County League, upped his average to .621 for the season when he led the Mt. Savage attack with a double and three singles for a perfect day at the plate. In nine games played to date he has obtained 18 hits in 29 official trips.

"Chuck" Winebrenner started on the mound for the Indians but was forced to withdraw during the rousing fourth when he was injured sliding. Jack Lowery pitched the last four frames for Mt. Savage, scattered five hits, yielded one run and made his record 3-0 for the campaign.

The defeat was charged to Dick Wilson, who replaced Robert L. Wilson on the mound for the Bulldogs in the third inning.

Valley Defeats Beall

Coach John Meyers' club nicked the offerings of Jim Gardner for 14 safeties, including doubles by Roger Wilson, George Lauder and "Tippy" Metts. Wilson batted in three of the Knights' runs and had three hits in four trips.

Jim Getty started on the mound for Valley, worked six innings, and was credited with the win. He yielded eight hits, fanned six and walked four. Lefty Wayne Johnson hurled the final inning for Valley.

Killebrew Hits Two Homers As Senators Win

7th Inning Rally Beats Tigers, 7-4

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harmon Killebrew clouted his 11th and 12th homers of the season Tuesday night—marking the fourth time in 11 days he has homered twice in one game—to lead the Washington Senators to a 7-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Killebrew drove in five of Washington's runs, hitting his first homer off starter Frank Lary with one on in the sixth inning and his second off reliever Ray Narleski in the seventh.

The Senators went ahead for good when they scored four runs in the seventh to knock out Lary and take a 7-4 lead.

J. W. Porter started the rally with a double and after Dave Sisler replaced Lary, two walks filled the bases. Bob Allison's sacrifice fly tied the score at 4-4 and Killebrew then connected for his second homer of the game, good for three more runs.

Detroit jumped in front with two runs in the first inning on Eddie Yost's single, Larry Osborne's double and Al Kaline's single, then led 3-0 when Ted Lepcio hit his second homer of the season with the bases empty in the fifth.

Killebrew's first homer of the game, which followed Albie Pearson's single and Allison's double in the sixth, tied the score at 3-3 but the Tigers went ahead again in the seventh when Lou Berberet's double drove in Rocky Bridges.

Sisler suffered his first loss of the season.

Indians Edge Yankees, 7-6; Colavito Stars

Rocky Gets 4 Hits; Woody Held Homers

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rocky Colavito smashed four hits totaling 9 bases and Woody Held hit a two-run homer Tuesday night as the Cleveland Indians beat the New York Yankees, 7-6, for their third straight victory of the season over the world champions.

Cal McLish became the American League's first five-game winner of the year with the help of a sensational relief job by rookie Jim Perry, who struck out four of the seven men he faced, including Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard with the tying run aboard in the ninth inning.

A crowd of 34,671 saw three Yankee errors help the Indians score four unearned runs. Catcher Yogi Berra committed one of the errors, ending a record streak of 148 consecutive games without a miscue.

Colavito knocked in two runs with his eighth homer, two doubles and a single, and Held cracked his sixth homer to highlight a third inning in which the Indians scored five runs.

Two errors by Tony Kubek after Held's homer, a double by Colavito, a walk and a single by Russ Nixon completed the big frame.

McLish, who has beaten the Yankees four straight times and never lost to them in his career, was tagged for a run in the second inning and then yielded homers to Mantle and Howard in the third. Berra brought the Yankees to within one run of a tie with a two-run seventh inning homer and Cleveland Manager Joe Gordon brought in Perry at the start of the eighth.

Perry retired the side in order in the eighth, striking out Enos Slaughter and Andy Carey. Kubek opened the ninth with a double but Perry, a six-foot, four-inch fastballer, struck out Mantle, retired Berra on a pop fly and fanned Howard.

The Knights of Columbus took over sole possession of first place in the Rocking Chair Softball League yesterday by scoring their second straight victory over the previously unbeaten Ritter A. C. at Stitcher Field by the score of 6-0.

Jimmy Angellatta started on the mound for the Knights before Al Sheetz arrived on the scene and yielded the only hit—a Texas League double by Often in the first inning. Sheetz came on in the third, pitched hitless ball for five innings, fanned six and posted his second win of the season.

George Geatz smacked a pair of two baggers to account for two of the Knights' seven blows. Donnie Farrell and Sheetz also rapped doubles.

In other league action, the V.F.W. shook a two-game losing streak by beating Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 4-2, at Post Field, and the Loyal Order of Moose scored two runs in the top of the eighth to nose out the Celanese A.A., 4-2.

Manager Cecil Grimes socked a homer. Ted Durbin and Mil Dean obtained two hits each and Phil Reuschel excelled at short for the Vets. "Pete" Elliott held the Glassmen to four hits, one a two-bagger by Clay Ingram.

Pete Cecil's triple drove in the deciding run to give the Moose an extra inning triumph over the Silkmen at Celanese Field. Dick Klavuhn who replaced Hull in the 6th inning got credit for the win. Warnick, Celanese relief hurler, was the loser. Cecil and Keyser shared six of the Moose team's eight blows while Cunningham had two safeties for the Silks. The scores:

In other games Maple Inn edged Fossilville, 7-6, and the Homewood Old Exports walloped Cumberland Cement, 10-1.

Ronnie Neubiser hammered a triple and single and Harry Widdows and Joe Glass collected two singles each for Maple Inn. Junior Ranker and "Mo" Barrett smacked doubles for the losers.

Pirates Defeat San Francisco In 12th Inning, 6 To 5

Buccos Score Three Tallies To Sew It Up

Almost Give Game Away In 12th On Trio Of Miscues

By SCOTT BAILLIE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, sparked by Bill Mazeroski's third hit of the afternoon, erupted for three runs in the 12th inning Tuesday to defeat the San Francisco Giants, 6-5.

However, the Pirates nearly blew it in the home half of the 12th when they committed three errors which let two Giants runs score. Two of the boots were registered by Roberto Clemente in right field while Don Hoak fielded a grounder at third base and threw into the Giants' dugout for another miscue.

But Bennie Daniels, who was a loser here Monday night, retired Jackie Brandt on a foul to the catcher and got Daryl Spencer to pop up to short to win his first of the season.

Daniels was the third Pirate hurler to work while six went to the mound for San Francisco.

The loss went to Gordon Jones, who opened the 12th and gave up a double to Dick Stuart, the first batter to face him. Stuart scored on Mazeroski's single to break a 3-3 tie. Two more runs came in for Pittsburgh after the bases were loaded and reliever Don Zanni forced one across with a walk and Joe Shipley was socked for a single by Clemente.

Jim Davenport gave the Giants a 1-0 lead in the third inning with his second home run of the season. After Pittsburgh had taken a 3-1 lead in the eighth, the Giants rallied for two with Willie Mays doubling in one run then scoring on a single by Brandt.

Sugar Robinson Signs To Defend His Title

Champion To Meet Basilio Sept. 21 At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson Tuesday signed to defend in Philadelphia Sept. 21 against Carmen Basilio the middleweight championship the National Boxing Assn. took away from him May 4. Basilio, however, has not been contacted.

Al Klein, a member of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, said he anticipated the NBA would reconsider its action and give Robinson back his title so that the bout scheduled for the 100,000 seat Philadelphia Stadium would be recognized as a title fight.

Robinson said he expected the gate to bring in a million dollars with additional revenue from theater television rights. He said his contract with Rose calls for 45 per cent of the gate with Basilio to get 20 per cent.

The NBA lifted Robinson's title after repeated warnings to the champion to sign for a defense against Basilio, the No. 1 contender. It recommended a fight for the title between Basilio and former champion Gene Fullmer with the winner to meet the leading challenger, presumably Spider Webb within 60 days.

Robinson went into court when the New York commission set a date to strip him of his crown.

Justice Saul Streit of the New York Supreme Court heard the case and ordered Robinson to sign for a title defense within 15 days of the signed court directive. The 15 day period expires May 15. The New York commission has said it too would vacate the middleweight crown if Robinson did not carry out the court order.

First Landing Checks In For The Preakness

Made 3-1 Second Choice Saturday; Twelve May Start

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — First Landing, the richest candidate in Saturday's Preakness, checked into historic Pimlico Tuesday accompanied by some optimistic handlers and a $30 bar bill.

"It's a special kind of mineral water from Hot Springs, Ark," said Norman Richardson, foreman of the Chenery-owned Meadow Stable. "It costs more than $3 for each of these 5-gallon jugs, and we brought 10 jugs down with us from New York."

Trainer J. H. (Casey) Hayes is expected to arrive Wednesday to supervise First Landing's final preparations for the 83rd running of the mile and three-sixteenths race, which may attract 12 contenders for a purse worth about $191,000.

Rated 2nd Choice

The beaten favorite in the Kentucky Derby on May 2, First Landing was pegged as the 3-1 second choice in the annual advance Preakness line.

Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer was figured as a probable 2-1 favorite off his derby performance as the runner-up by a nose to Tomy Lee, who is bypassing Pimlico.

Besides his 13 victories, First Landing has been second three times and third twice, enabling him to pile up $475,142 in earnings.

Royal Orbit Is 9-2

Other probable Preakness starters and their advance odds are Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler, and Clairbourne Farm's Dunce, 10-1; Elkcam Stables' Open View, 12-1; King Ranch's Black Hills, 15-1; Miss Patricia Jacobs' Our Dad, 20-1; Anthony Impesi's Rico Tesio, 21-1; Robert S. Lytle's Sundown II, 20-1; Lester G. Robinson's Marauder, 30-1, and Cecil B. Fischbach's Festival King, 30-1.

Marshall Touched By Kuharich Gift

Marshall, who attended the Notre Dame varsity-alumni game last week end as guest of ex-Redskins Coach Joe Kuharich, brought back a gift. It was a hugh blue-and-gold blanket with the Notre Dame monogram and the following inscription embroidered in gold:

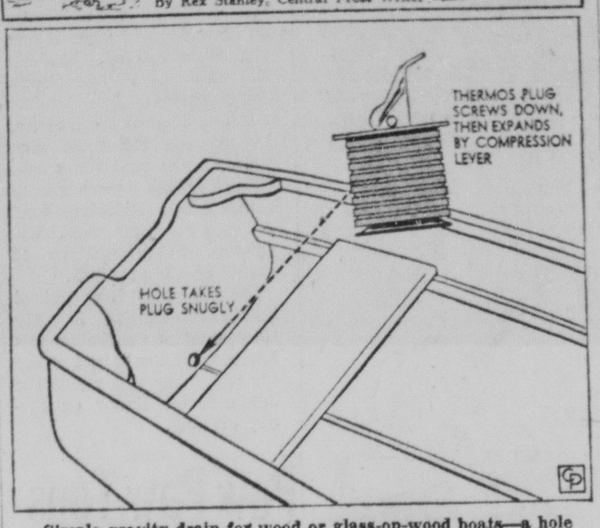
"Nicest thing an ex-coach ever did for me," Marshall beamed. "I was really touched."

EVERYBODY'S BOATING

By Rex Stanley, Central Press Writer



Simple gravity drain for wood or glass-on-wood boats—a hole in the transom near the keel line and a compression thermos plug. If boat planes well at full speed, drain will suck water from inside. Put back plug before slowing down.

WATER is the important part of all pleasure boating—but it doesn't belong in the bilge or the bottom of any boat.

It can be the clue to a leak in a small boat. Too much in the bilge of a larger boat may mean poor or inadequate pumps. Or, it may be overside spray, rain, or the water left from a washing job. Whatever the origin, inside water damages wood, rusts and corrodes metal, causes mildew and fungi, and makes a wet, unpleasant boat.

Any boat too heavy to turn over easily on shore should have a gravity drain. There are several types on the market, but one of the simplest is just a hole—in the bottom or transom, near the stern—and a water-tight plug. For wood or the glass-on-wood hull, the drain hole can be neatly, tightly plugged with a 15-cent compression thermos cork. Drill through the transom, next to the keel line, to take the cork snugly BEFORE it's screwed down and compressed.

Like fancier drains with special valves, this inexpensive hole-and-cork combination can suck out water if the boat planes well at full speed. Open the throttle, pull the cork, but be sure to put it back before slowing down. Ashore, leave the drain open when you wash the boat, or trailer it uncovered in wet weather.

Averill's Grand Slam Homer Defeats Braves

Cubs Pinch Hitter Delivers In Ninth, Beats Burdette, 7-3

CHICAGO (UPI) — Earl Averill hit a pinch grand slam homer on Lew Burdete's 2-and-2 pitch with two out in the ninth inning today to give the Chicago Cubs a come-from-behind 7-3 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves.

Burdette had allowed the Cubs only four hits for the first eight innings and opened the ninth protecting a 3-2 lead. Ernie Banks grounded out, but Walt Moryn clubbed his fourth homer of the year to tie the score.

Dale Long and Bobby Thomson singled and Lee Walls was walked intentionally. Sammy Taylor worked the count to 3-and-2 before grounding sharply to shortstop Johnny Logan, who threw to the plate to force pinch runner Chick King.

His blow gave sore-arm relief hurler Don Elston, who pitched only the ninth inning after relieving Bob Anderson, his first victory of the season. Anderson gave up all three Milwaukee runs, all on homers. Eddie Mathews, the major league's home run leader, hit his 13th of the season, and both Logan and Del Crandall collected their third.

Tony Taylor also homored for the Cubs and Anderson brought about the other run when he doubled, advanced on an error and scored on a fielder's choice.

Death Takes Jesse Linthicum, Sun Sports Editor 30 Years

Shunned Typing, Wrote Stories In Longhand

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jesse A. Linthicum, sports editor of The Baltimore Sun for 30 years, died Tuesday. He was 67. Death was due to a blood clot on the brain.

Linthicum was one of sports writing's "old guard". He shunned typewriters outside of the office, writing his stories in longhand on the copy paper he kept stuffed in his inside coat pocket.

He knew the big names of sports' so-called "golden era" of the '20s. He and Babe Ruth were fast friends since the Babe, son of a Baltimore barkeep, broke in with the old Baltimore Orioles of the International League.

Linthicum knew from first-hand experience. He was assigned to scholastic sports when he first came with the Sun in 1911 after breaking in as a copy boy on the defunct Baltimore Star.

His column, "Sunlight on Sports," was the subject of many a wager. He was outspoken, and his mail reflected it. Many times most of his mail was critical of his views. He minded only when the mail slackened.

"If I don't like what someone does in sports, I criticize them," he said. "If a reader doesn't like what I write, he has the same privilege."

He was happiest in such a squabble.

He became ill several months ago, forcing him to spend less and less time at his cluttered desk. And because of ill health, he had to miss the Oriole opening game at home last spring for the first time in 33 years.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Edna Lynn Foster; a daughter, Mrs. Dodd Scott Chairs; a brother, Wilmer H. Linthicum, and a sister, Mrs. Herman E. Greenland, all of Baltimore.

Lightweights Meet In Chicago Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Ralph Dupas, who learned the hard way he is not a lightweight, will try to improve his high welterweight ranking against tough Charley Scott in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

The 10-rounder will be televised nationally (ABC-TV) beginning at 9 p.m., EST.

The NBA lists only Sugar Hart of Philadelphia as a better claimant than Dupas for world champion Don Jordan's 147-pound crown. However, it was just about a year ago Dupas was clouted out of the lightweight ranks. Champion Joe Brown knocked out Dupas in a lightweight title bout May 7, 1958, in Houston, Tex.

The bout will be scored under the 5-point must system.

The places scraped or burned off and painted with Hold-Tite breathe and act as louvers or vents. The moisture present in the house comes out through these spots (louvers) in the form of vapor, drawn out by the sun. This is the same principle as if you had actually drilled holes and put louvers in your home. These spots (louvers) will help relieve the moisture pressure on the entire exterior surface of the house, even including where the old paint has not been removed. SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, sparked by Bill Mazeroski's third hit of the afternoon, erupted for three runs in the 12th inning Tuesday to defeat the San Francisco Giants, 6-5.

However, the Pirates nearly blew it in the home half of the 12th when they committed three errors which let two Giants runs score. Two of the boots were registered by Roberto Clemente in right field while Don Hoak fielded a grounder at third base and threw into the Giants' dugout for another miscue.

But Bennie Daniels, who was a loser here Monday night, retired Jackie Brandt on a foul to the catcher and got Daryl Spencer to pop up to short to win his first of the season.

Daniels was the third Pirate hurler to work while six went to the mound for San Francisco.

The loss went to Gordon Jones, who opened the 12th and gave up a double to Dick Stuart, the first batter to face him. Stuart scored on Mazeroski's single to break a 3-3 tie. Two more runs came in for Pittsburgh after the bases were loaded and reliever Don Zanni forced one across with a walk and Joe Shipley was socked for a single by Clemente.

Jim Davenport gave the Giants a 1-0 lead in the third inning with his second home run of the season. After Pittsburgh had taken a 3-1 lead in the eighth, the Giants rallied for two with Willie Mays doubling in one run then scoring on a single by Brandt.

Sugar Robinson Signs To Defend His Title

Champion To Meet Basilio Sept. 21 At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson Tuesday signed to defend in Philadelphia Sept. 21 against Carmen Basilio the middleweight championship the National Boxing Assn. took away from him May 4. Basilio, however, has not been contacted.

Al Klein, a member of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, said he anticipated the NBA would reconsider its action and give Robinson back his title so that the bout scheduled for the 100,000 seat Philadelphia Stadium would be recognized as a title fight.

Robinson said he expected the gate to bring in a million dollars with additional revenue from theater television rights. He said his contract with Rose calls for 45 per cent of the gate with Basilio to get 20 per cent.

The NBA lifted Robinson's title after repeated warnings to the champion to sign for a defense against Basilio, the No. 1 contender. It recommended a fight for the title between Basilio and former champion Gene Fullmer with the winner to meet the leading challenger, presumably Spider Webb within 60 days.

Justice Saul Streit of the New York Supreme Court heard the case and ordered Robinson to sign for a title defense within 15 days of the signed court directive. The 15 day period expires May 15. The New York commission has said it too would vacate the middleweight crown if Robinson did not carry out the court order.

First Landing Checks In For The Preakness

Made 3-1 Second Choice Saturday; Twelve May Start

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — First Landing, the richest candidate in Saturday's Preakness, checked into historic Pimlico Tuesday accompanied by some optimistic handlers and a $30 bar bill.

"It's a special kind of mineral water from Hot Springs, Ark," said Norman Richardson, foreman of the Chenery-owned Meadow Stable. "It costs more than $3 for each of these 5-gallon jugs, and we brought 10 jugs down with us from New York."

Trainer J. H. (Casey) Hayes is expected to arrive Wednesday to supervise First Landing's final preparations for the 83rd running of the mile and three-sixteenths race, which may attract 12 contenders for a purse worth about $191,000.

Rated 2nd Choice

The beaten favorite in the Kentucky Derby on May 2, First Landing was pegged as the 3-1 second choice in the annual advance Preakness line.

Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer was figured as a probable 2-1 favorite off his derby performance as the runner-up by a nose to Tomy Lee, who is bypassing Pimlico.

Besides his 13 victories, First Landing has been second three times and third twice, enabling him to pile up $475,142 in earnings.

Royal Orbit Is 9-2

Other probable Preakness starters and their advance odds are Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler, and Clairbourne Farm's Dunce, 10-1; Elkcam Stables' Open View, 12-1; King Ranch's Black Hills, 15-1; Miss Patricia Jacobs' Our Dad, 20-1; Anthony Impesi's Rico Tesio, 21-1; Robert S. Lytle's Sundown II, 20-1; Lester G. Robinson's Marauder, 30-1, and Cecil B. Fischbach's Festival King, 30-1.

Marshall Touched By Kuharich Gift

Marshall, who attended the Notre Dame varsity-alumni game last week end as guest of ex-Redskins Coach Joe Kuharich, brought back a gift. It was a hugh blue-and-gold blanket with the Notre Dame monogram and the following inscription embroidered in gold:

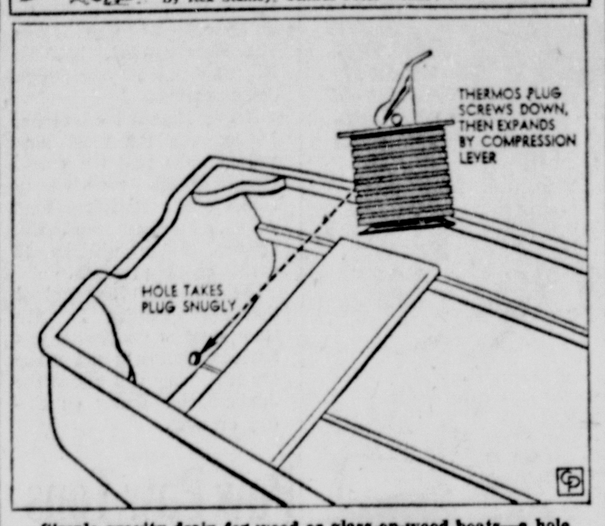
EVERYBODY'S BOATING

By Rex Stanley, Central Press Writer



Simple gravity drain for wood or glass-on-wood boats—a hole in the transom near the keel line and a compression thermos plug. If boat planes well at full speed, drain will suck water from inside. Put back plug before slowing down.

WATER is the important part of all pleasure boating—but it doesn't belong in the bilge or the bottom of any boat.

It can be the clue to a leak in a small boat. Too much in the bilge of a larger boat may mean poor or inadequate pumps. Or, it may be overside spray, rain, or the water left from a washing job. Whatever the origin, inside water damages wood, rusts and corrodes metal, causes mildew and fungi, and makes a wet, unpleasant boat.

Any boat too heavy to turn over easily on shore should have a gravity drain. There are several types on the market, but one of the simplest is just a hole—in the bottom or transom, near the stern—and a water-tight plug. For wood or the glass-on-wood hull, the drain hole can be neatly, tightly plugged with a 15-cent compression thermos cork. Drill through the transom, next to the keel line, to take the cork snugly BEFORE it's screwed down and compressed.

Like fancier drains with special valves, this inexpensive hole-and-cork combination can suck out water if the boat planes well at full speed. Open the throttle, pull the cork, but be sure to put it back before slowing down. Ashore, leave the drain open when you wash the boat, or trailer it uncovered in wet weather.

Averill's Grand Slam Homer Defeats Braves

CHICAGO (UPI) — Earl Averill hit a pinch grand slam homer on Lew Burdette's 2-and-2 pitch with two out in the ninth inning today to give the Chicago Cubs a come-from-behind 7-3 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves.

Burdette had allowed the Cubs only four hits for the first eight innings and opened the ninth protecting a 3-2 lead. Ernie Banks grounded out, but Walt Moryn clubbed his fourth homer of the year to tie the score.

Dale Long and Bobby Thomson singled and Lee Walls was walked intentionally. Sammy Taylor worked the count to 3-and-2 before grounding sharply to shortstop Johnny Logan, who threw to the plate to force pinch runner Chick King.

That brought up Averill. He took a ball, a called strike, fouled a pitch, took another ball, and fouled another one before he drove the next pitch over the fence in left field.

His blow gave sore-arm relief hurler Don Elston, who pitched only the ninth inning after relieving Bob Anderson, his first victory of the season. Anderson gave up all three Milwaukee runs, all on homers. Eddie Mathews, the major league's home run leader, hit his 13th of the season, and both Logan and Del Crandall collected their third.

Tony Taylor also homered for the Cubs and Anderson brought about the other run when he doubled, advanced on an error and scored on a fielder's choice.

Shunned Typing, Wrote Stories In Longhand

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jesse A. Linthicum, sports editor of The Baltimore Sun for 30 years, died Tuesday. He was 67. Death was due to a blood clot on the brain.

Linthicum was one of sports writing's "old guard". He shunned typewriters outside of the office, writing his stories in longhand on the copy paper he kept stuffed in his inside coat pocket.

He knew the big names of sports' so-called "golden era" of the '20s. He and Babe Ruth were fast friends since the Babe, a native of a Baltimore barkeep, broke in with the old Baltimore Orioles of the International League.

But while mingling with the greats, he stressed scholastic and sandlot coverage in the Sun's section.

"Get plenty of names," he instructed his reporters on those assignments. "They like to see their name when they do something."

Linthicum knew from first-hand experience. He was assigned to scholastic sports when he first came with the Sun in 1911 after breaking in as a copy boy on the defunct Baltimore Star.

His column, "Sunlight on Sports," was the subject of many a wager. He was outspoken, and his mail reflected it. Many times most of his mail was critical of his views. He minded only when the mail slackened.

"If I don't like what someone does in sports, I criticize them," he said. "If a reader doesn't like what I write, he has the same privilege."

He was happiest in such a squabble.

He became ill several months ago, forcing him to spend less and less time at his clutiered desk. And because of ill health, he had to miss the Oriole opening game at home last spring for the first time in 38 years.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Edna Lynn Foster; a daughter, Mrs. Dodd Scott Chairs; a brother, Wilmer H. Linthicum, and a sister, Mrs. Herman E. Greenland, all of Baltimore.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Lightweights Meet In Chicago Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Ralph Dupas, who learned the hard way he is not a lightweight, will try to improve his high welterweight ranking against tough Charley Scott in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

The 10-rounder will be televised nationally (ABC-TV) beginning at 9 p.m., EST.

Dupas, New Orleans' veteran of 92 bouts at the age of 23, is pegged a 2 to 1 favorite over Scott, 22, Philadelphia puncher who is seeking a 5th consecutive victory.

Dupas, who owns a 75-11-6 pro record, is ranked the No. 2 contender by the National Boxing Assn., and No. 4 welterweight by Ring magazine.

Scott, winner of 22 bouts while losing only 2 and having 7 draws in 31 starts, is ranked No. 7 both by NBA and Ring.

The NBA lists only Sugar Hart of Philadelphia as a better claimant than Dupas for world champion Don Jordan's 147-pound crown. However, it was just about a year ago Dupas was clouted out of the lightweight ranks. Champion Joe Brown knocked out Dupas in a lightweight title bout May 7, 1958, in Houston, Tex.

The bout will be scored under the 5-point must system.

The places scraped or burned off and painted with Hold-Tite breathe and act as louvers or vents. The moisture present in the house comes out through these spots (louvers) in the form of vapor, drawn out by the sun. This is the same principle as if you had actually drilled holes and put louvers in your home. Judy Jump Up Cops Belmont Feature

ELMONT, N. Y., May 12 (AP) —Herbert F. Krimendahl's Judy Jump Up scored an easy five length victory in the featured $6,000 Broadcasters Purse at Belmont today to give Eddie Arcaro his third riding win of the afternoon. The 43-year-old jockey, who scored with four winners yesterday, continued to act like a young apprentice as he cut the corner at the head of Belmont's stretch to sneak inside Velvet Acre's First Asking, the early leader, and pull away to an easy score.

The crowd of 18,038 which attended the second day of the Belmont meeting, was well aware that Arcaro was in a hot riding streak for Judy Jump Up was strong choice to win the six furlong event for fillies and mares in the classified division. Judy Jump Up returned $4.10, $2.80 and $2.40 across the board. In his two earlier mounts on the warm afternoon's card Arcaro won with Warlike ($3.90) in the sixth and Staretta ($6.70) in the fifth.

First Asking lost the place award to the fast finish of Barclay Stable's Panabelle 2nd, which got up to be second by a head over the tiring pacemaker. Good As Gold, third choice in the field of eight, finished fourth another two lengths back of First Asking.

Women's Shuffle Playoff Matches To Start Tonight

Four teams—two from Frostburg and two from Cumberland—are scheduled to open semi-final playoff series in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

Golden Nugget, which finished the regular season on top by three full games over the Cumberland W.O.W., will host Frostburg American Legion in the first three games of their six-game series, total points, on the Golden Nugget board.

Frostburg Legion, incidentally, has won the playoff crown six years in a row and will be striving to make it seven.

Hann's Tavern which defeated Frostburg's Eagles in a playoff match for fourth place after the teams had ended the regular season in a tie will visit the W.O.W. in the first three games of their 6-game series tonight.

All matches will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

JUST MADE IT—Here's a breakdown nag that DID come in first—Clay Spark stumbling across the finish line to win a six furlong at Tanforan. Jockey Arthur Goldsmith hangs on.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you feel like booing the next big league umpire you see, go right ahead for it's a cinch none of them is perfect.

As if things already weren't tough enough for baseball's men in blue, they now must be mind-readers to enforce one rule on the books today.

How else could umpire Frank Secory be positive that pitcher Don Drysdale of the Dodgers deliberately plunked Willie Mays of the Giants or that when pitcher Sam Jones of the Giants hit Norm Larker of the Dodgers in the same game it was purely accidental? The mind-reading act cost Drysdale $50—the mandatory fine for a pitcher who deliberately fires at a hitter.

Check These Qualifications

So you wanna be an umpire? Check these other qualifications for the "perfect umpire," as tough in their way as those exhaustive tests thrown at our astronaught candidates who may ride to the moon some day:

In addition to being a mind-reader, he must be a memory expert on the fine print in the rules, wise as a Supreme Court justice in interpreting same, honest as the keeper of the keys to the gold room at Fort Knox, sharper of vision than a .400 hitter who lets a strike go by without swinging and blessed with extra-sensory perception to stay on top of a play that hasn't happened yet.

Furthermore, he must be possessed of a psyche that can't be fractured by lonely years of living with the whole world ag'in him and of a body that'll take the hard knocks as well as that of players up to 30-35 years younger.

No Perfect Umpire

In other words, there ain't no such animal as the perfect umpire. Never has been, despite the protestations of the late Bill Klem.

It is the theory of the rules-makers, who want to curb the nasty practice of "beanball" throwing, that an umpire can tell when a pitcher actually is throwing a batter.

The circumstances, the way a pitch takes off in flight, maybe even the style or personality of the pitcher or his manager are supposed to be the tip-offs.

But the "brush-back" pitch is the time-honored strategy of pitchers who need an equalizer against plate-crowing hitters and you can't blame the pitchers from screaming over the loss of their weapon.

The only hitter we know who defends the "brush-back" is Gil McDougald of the Yankees.

"Pitchers are entitled to make a living, same as the hitters," according to Gil. "Frankly, I'm flattered when a pitcher knocks me down on purpose. Means he's scared of me."

"In my day," snorts Casey Stengel, "you didn't have to guess if a pitcher was throwing at your head. You knew. He was."

Cubs, Phils Trade Southpaw Hurlers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs Tuesday traded southpaw pitchers, Seth Morehead of the Phillies for Taylor Phillips of the Cubs.

William Woodward's Gallant Fox was unplaced but once in 17 races. He won 11 starts and $328,165.

Dick Tiger Whips Sandy

Charnley Scores KO Over Toweel In 10th

LONDON (PUI)—Nigerian Dick Tiger, British Empire middleweight champion, turned the tables on Randy Sandy of New York Tuesday night and won a decision over him in their return 10-round bout at Wembley Arena.

Before a crowd of 8,600, Tiger outpointed the American who had won a widely disputed decision over him at Liverpool, March 19.

The referee's verdict was unpopular because Sandy's clowning tactics had pleased the crowd. However, Tiger had forced the action in every round and he staggered Sandy with solid hooks to the head in the third, fifth and seventh rounds.

In a co-featured bout, southpaw Dave Charnley of England won the British Empire lightweight championship from Willie Toweel of South Africa on a 10th round knockout.

Judy Jump Up Cops Belmont Feature

ELMONT, N. Y., May 12 (AP) —Herbert F. Krimendahl's Judy Jump Up scored an easy five length victory in the featured $6,000 Broadcasters Purse at Belmont today to give Eddie Arcaro his third riding win of the afternoon. The 43-year-old jockey, who scored with four winners yesterday, continued to act like a young apprentice as he cut the corner at the head of Belmont's stretch to sneak inside Velvet Acre's First Asking, the early leader, and pull away to an easy score.

The crowd of 18,038 which attended the second day of the Belmont meeting, was well aware that Arcaro was in a hot riding streak for Judy Jump Up was strong choice to win the six furlong event for fillies and mares in the classified division. Judy Jump Up returned $4.10, $2.80 and $2.40 across the board. In his two earlier mounts on the warm afternoon's card Arcaro won with Warlike ($3.90) in the sixth and Staretta ($6.70) in the fifth.

First Asking lost the place award to the fast finish of Barclay Stable's Panabelle 2nd, which got up to be second by a head over the tiring pacemaker. Good As Gold, third choice in the field of eight, finished fourth another two lengths back of First Asking.

Spanish Dandy Pays $83.60 At Suffolk

BOSTON, Mass., May 12 (AP) —Thunder and lightning accompanied by a heavy downpour today moved in on Suffolk Downs just before the seventh race much to the delight of W. J. Beattie's Spanish Dandy who revelled in the sloppy going to post across the board prices of $83.60 $36.60 and $26.20.

The New England bred colt finished a length clear of Phil Schwartz's Battle Chant who was four lengths in advance of S. M. Howard's Postpone in the six furlong dash that was completed in 1:14 2/5.

Battle Chant returned $7.40 and $6.00 while Postpone paid $14.40 to show.

Women's Shuffle Playoff Matches To Start Tonight

Four teams—two from Frostburg and two from Cumberland—are scheduled to open semi-final playoff series in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

Golden Nugget, which finished the regular season on top by three full games over the Cumberland W.O.W., will host Frostburg American Legion in the first three games of their six-game series, total points, on the Golden Nugget board.

Frostburg Legion, incidentally, has won the playoff crown six years in a row and will be striving to make it seven.

Hann's Tavern which defeated Frostburg's Eagles in a playoff match for fourth place after the teams had ended the regular season in a tie will visit the W.O.W. in the first three games of their 6-game series tonight.

All matches will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you feel like booing the next big league umpire you see, go right ahead for it's a cinch none of them is perfect.

As if things already weren't tough enough for baseball's men in blue, they now must be mind-readers to enforce one rule on the books today.

How else could umpire Frank Secory be positive that pitcher Don Drysdale of the Dodgers deliberately plunked Willie Mays of the Giants or that when pitcher Sam Jones of the Giants hit Norm Larker of the Dodgers in the same game it was purely accidental? The mind-reading act cost Drysdale $50—the mandatory fine for a pitcher who deliberately fires at a hitter.

Check These Qualifications

So you wanna be an umpire? Check these other qualifications for the "perfect umpire," as tough in their way as those exhaustive tests thrown at our astronaught candidates who may ride to the moon some day:

In addition to being a mind-reader, he must be a memory expert on the fine print in the rules, wise as a Supreme Court justice in interpreting same, honest as the keeper of the keys to the gold room at Fort Knox, sharper of vision than a .400 hitter who lets a strike go by without swinging and blessed with extra-sensory perception to stay on top of a play that hasn't happened yet.

Furthermore, he must be possessed of a psyche that can't be fractured by lonely years of living with the whole world ag'in him and of a body that'll take the hard knocks as well as that of players up to 30-35 years younger.

No Perfect Umpire

In other words, there ain't no such animal as the perfect umpire. Never has been, despite the protestations of the late Bill Klem.

It is the theory of the rules-makers, who want to curb the nasty practice of "beanball" throwing, that an umpire can tell when a pitcher actually is throwing a batter.

The circumstances, the way a pitch takes off in flight, maybe even the style or personality of the pitcher or his manager are supposed to be the tip-offs.

But the "brush-back" pitch is the time-honored strategy of pitchers who need an equalizer against plate-crowing hitters and you can't blame the pitchers from screaming over the loss of their weapon.

The only hitter we know who defends the "brush-back" is Gil McDougald of the Yankees.

"Pitchers are entitled to make a living, same as the hitters," according to Gil. "Frankly, I'm flattered when a pitcher knocks me down on purpose. Means he's scared of me."

"In my day," snorts Casey Stengel, "you didn't have to guess if a pitcher was throwing at your head. You knew. He was."

Cubs, Phils Trade Southpaw Hurlers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs Tuesday traded southpaw pitchers, Seth Morehead of the Phillies for Taylor Phillips of the Cubs.

The 25-year-old Phillips and the 24-year-old Morehead have posted identical 0-2 records so far this season.

William Woodward's Gallant Fox was unplaced but once in 17 races. He won 11 starts and $328,165.

Dick Tiger Whips Sandy

Charnley Scores KO Over Toweel In 10th

LONDON (PUI)—Nigerian Dick Tiger, British Empire middleweight champion, turned the tables on Randy Sandy of New York Tuesday night and won a decision over him in their return 10-round bout at Wembley Arena.

Before a crowd of 8,600, Tiger outpointed the American who had won a widely disputed decision over him at Liverpool, March 19.

Tiger's Empire title was not at stake in either bout, since only residents of the Empire can fight for that championship.

Tiger weighed 161¾ pounds; Sandy, 156½.

The referee's verdict was unpopular because Sandy's clowning tactics had pleased the crowd. However, Tiger had forced the action in every round and he staggered Sandy with solid hooks to the head in the third, fifth and seventh rounds.

In a co-featured bout, southpaw Dave Charnley of England won the British Empire lightweight championship from Willie Toweel of South Africa on a 10th round knockout.

Charleston Lands College Tourney; Pence Heads WVC

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia Conference voted Monday night to bring its annual basketball tournament to Charleston after 19 years at Wesleyan College in Buckhannon.

The tournament will be limited to eight teams, four each from two divisions, also a new innovation approved at the meeting. No dates have been selected but the tournament will be held on a Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Charleston's new $2,500,000 Civic Center.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Our Academy Award winner Susan Hayward has put her much sought after signature on a contract to star in Ross Hunter's "Elephant Hill," the 1959 Harper Prize novel by Robin White.

Ross, who is being sent to India in August by Ed Muhl, Universal-International production chief, to scout locations, told me that he lunched with Susan while she was in Hollywood. Both she and her husband, Eaton Chalkley, liked the East-meets-West opus, which will be filmed in its entirety in India. The picture starts in October at a cost of $4,000,000—well, after the hit "Imitation of Life" has made, Ross can have anything he wants.

You can take it from me, and I may be talking out of school, but Fred Astaire will be in the next Allen Lerner-Frederick Loewe musical at MGM for Arthur Freed.

"Gigi" won nine Oscar awards, and Fred won nine Emmy awards. I am so happy for Fred, and he was so pleased and grateful for his honors. I had talked to him early in the day of the Emmy awards, and congratulated him because I was sure he was going to win.

Fred admitted it meant so much to him because he put so much preparation into the show, and worked so hard—he's a perfectionist at all times.

I had a first-hand account of a species of juveniles in London, the English version of our American Beatniks, from Cubby Broccoli, who is here from England for a few weeks. He told me his picture, "Jazz Boats", which starts in June has to do with these characters who live under the Thames in caves and play nothing but rock 'n' roll.

They wear miners' caps and are as much a part of a strange new world as are our Beatniks. Cubby told me that he and Irving Allen will also make "The Long Ships", a Viking story, in Hugoslavia, and this he will cast with American talent.

Visiting with Bette Davis is as usual a rewarding experience. Bette said she is so sick of "confessions" being put out by motion picture stars on their past life.

"It does no good to say you hated your mother, or your father, that your children don't understand you, or that you had many lovers in the past," said Bette. "I don't believe in this new school of ultra frankness."

The engagement of Eva Bartok to Prince Schiv Palitani, which was broken off almost before it started, was a matter of age. According to Curt Jurgens who has remained friendly with his ex-wife, and with whom he and his present wife had dinner, Eva told him the inside story of why she broke off the romance.

The prince told Eva that he was 28 years old, and though he didn't seem as mature as she would have liked, she found out the truth from the prince's father—that he is only 23. This completely disillusioned her.

wrong thing may be only a word or two.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Have A Way With Words

You've probably heard the little story about the two shoe salesmen, sometimes told to point up the importance of tact. When a woman customer complains that one shoe of a pair she is trying on pinches although the other is comfortable, one salesman explains it by saying that one of her feet must be bigger than the other. The second salesman, in the same circumstances, says instead, "Madame, perhaps one of your feet is smaller than the other."

Some people always seem to say the right thing, always come up instantly with graceful words that are flattering to hear. And how rewarding such talent is in creating good will, pleasant atmosphere and favor for the speaker. What's the secret behind it? Nimble thinking, of course, but thinking of a special kind that starts with awareness of the other person's point of view. When this awareness is a habit, the right words come easily, at once.

Every true charmer has this habit of reaching out beyond her own reactions, of putting herself in another's place before she speaks. It isn't a habit that's impossible to develop. Take a first step simply by making it a practice not to speak too soon — give yourself a moment to think. Blunt and awkward words will be stilled if you take time to realize beforehand what effect they might have. Then try for a glimpse of what you would feel in the opposite position, and for a sincere expression of words you'd like to hear. As an understanding attitude grows, so does ability to find winning words to say, and you're off toward new high scores for your tact and charm.

12 Seamen Killed

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (UPI) Twelve crewmen were killed Tuesday when a gasoline-loaded vessel blew up in Wewak Harbor, police reported. Australian Police Inspector John Purcell said the 200-ton Busama blew up shortly after arriving in Wewak. The ship was carrying some 4,000 gallons of gasoline and other fuels. Flames from the fuel covered a square mile of the harbor, Purcell reported.

There are 79 national and state parks, forest and public recreation areas in North Carolina.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Our Academy Award winner Susan Hayward has put her much sought after signature on a contract to star in Ross Hunter's "Elephant Hill," the 1959 Harper Prize novel by Robin White.

Ross, who is being sent to India in August by Ed Muhl, Universal-International production chief, to scout locations, told me that he lunched with Susan while she was in Hollywood. Both she and her husband, Eaton Chalkley, liked the East-meets-West opus, which will be filmed in its entirety in India. The picture starts in October at a cost of $4,000,000—well, after the hit "Imitation of Life" has made, Ross can have anything he wants.

You can take it from me, and I may be talking out of school, but Fred Astaire will be in the next Allen Lerner-Frederick Loewe musical at MGM for Arthur Freed.

"Gigi" won nine Oscar awards, and Fred won nine Emmy awards. I am so happy for Fred, and he was so pleased and grateful for his honors. I had talked to him early in the day of the Emmy awards, and congratulated him because I was sure he was going to win.

Fred admitted it meant so much to him because he put so much preparation into the show, and worked so hard—he's a perfectionist at all times.

I had a first-hand account of a species of juveniles in London, the English version of our American Beatniks, from Cubby Broccoli, who is here from England for a few weeks. He told me his picture, "Jazz Boats", which starts in June has to do with these characters who live under the Thames in caves and play nothing but rock 'n' roll.

They wear miners' caps and are as much a part of a strange new world as are our Beatniks. Cubby told me that he and Irving Allen will also make "The Long Ships", a Viking story, in Hugoslavia, and this he will cast with American talent.

Visiting with Bette Davis is as usual a rewarding experience. Bette said she is so sick of "confessions" being put out by motion picture stars on their past life.

"It does no good to say you hated your mother, or your father, that your children don't understand you, or that you had many lovers in the past," said Bette. "I don't believe in this new school of ultra frankness."

Betty looked so well in her pretty summer print dress. Gary Merrill called for her later, bringing with him their seven-year-old blond son, Michael, who is a darling. Bette and Gary are working hard on their coming up tour through the U.S.A., of one night stands, in which they'll recite Carl Sandburg's poems. This is a great deal like the show "John Brown's Body" which the late Tyrone Power did so successfully.

The engagement of Eva Bartok to Prince Schiv Palitani, which was broken off almost before it started, was a matter of age. According to Curt Jurgens who has remained friendly with his ex-wife, and with whom he and his present wife had dinner, Eva told him the inside story of why she broke off the romance.

The prince told Eva that he was 28 years old, and though he didn't seem as mature as she would have liked, she found out the truth from the prince's father—that he is only 23. This completely disillusioned her.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Have A Way With Words

You've probably heard the little story about the two shoe salesmen, sometimes told to point up the importance of tact. When a woman customer complains that one shoe of a pair she is trying on pinches although the other is comfortable, one salesman explains it by saying that one of her feet must be bigger than the other. The second salesman, in the same circumstances, says instead, "Madame, perhaps one of your feet is smaller than the other."

Some people always seem to say the right thing, always come up instantly with graceful words that are flattering to hear. And how rewarding such talent is in creating good will, pleasant atmosphere and favor for the speaker. What's the secret behind it? Nimble thinking, of course, but thinking of a special kind that starts with awareness of the other person's point of view. When this awareness is a habit, the right words come easily, at once.

Every true charmer has this habit of reaching out beyond her own reactions, of putting herself in another's place before she speaks. It isn't a habit that's impossible to develop. Take a first step simply by making it a practice not to speak too soon — give yourself a moment to think. Blunt and awkward words will be stilled if you take time to realize beforehand what effect they might have. Then try for a glimpse of what you would feel in the opposite position, and for a sincere expression of words you'd like to hear. As an understanding attitude grows, so does ability to find winning words to say, and you're off toward new high scores for your tact and charm.

TOMORROW: How To Get More Out Of Exercise.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE —You can achieve an appealing voice—a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness and dullness. Write to Secrets of Charm in c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

12 Seamen Killed

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (UPI) Twelve crewmen were killed Tuesday when a gasoline-loaded vessel blew up in Wewak Harbor, police reported. Australian Police Inspector John Purcell said the 200-ton Busama blew up shortly after arriving in Wewak. The ship was carrying some 4,000 gallons of gasoline and other fuels. Flames from the fuel covered a square mile of the harbor, Purcell reported.

There are 79 national and state parks, forest and public recreation areas in North Carolina.

Card of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere appreciation to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind and sympathetic to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Ida Beeman. We also wish to thank the minister, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and the pallbearers. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

Husband, RICHARD BEEMAN AND FAMILY

New Machine Is Shown At Mining Congress Meet

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) —A new machine that can produce 400 tons of coal per shift with only an operator and a loader was explained to the American Mining Congress Tuesday by J. W. Heimaster, bore mining department official for Union Carbide Co., South Charleston, W.Va.

Heimaster said the recently-developed machine is designed to bore an oval 38 inches high and 116 inches wide to a depth of 1,000 feet. The machine is now so reliable it can withstand continuous operation, he said.

One of the advantages of the machine, he said, is the elimination of roof supports because no men work underground. In addition, drainage is not necessary because the machine is sufficiently waterproof to work through any water that may be in a borehole.

William O. Barnard Jr., general superintendent, Christopher Coal Co., Morgantown, W. Va., analyzed coal mine fires in the Pittsburgh seam in northern West Virginia for the past 10 years. He showed the fires were caused by electrical short circuits on equipment, falls on power wires, belt fires, gob lines or outcrop fires and haulage fires.

Theft Ring Member Jailed

PRINCETON, W. Va. (AP) — Justice moved swiftly in Mercer County Criminal Court here Tuesday as Earl Hess was sentenced on three housebreaking charges arising out of alleged activity with an interstate theft ring.

Hess, 45, of Bluefield, had been captured in Maryland after several months as a fugitive and was returned to Princeton only this morning.

In a speedy court action, Hess pleaded guilty to all three charges and received three 1-10 year sentences in a special appearance before Judge Walter V. Ross.

Hess was the 13th of 14 persons arrested in a police roundup of persons said to have been connected with the $100,000-a-year theft ring broken last January by police in Bluefield. Stolen goods were shuttled about Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, authorities said.

Senator Favors Corps For Boys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The establishment of a Youth Conservation Corps would provide useful jobs and educational opportunities for thousands of "frustratingly idle" young people in the nation, Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.) told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and cosponsored by Byrd and Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), would be similar to the old Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC).

"I earnestly support the establishment of a Youth Conservation Corps for the purpose of conserving the natural and human resources of our country," Byrd told the committee.

The senator said the proposal would establish a smaller, more flexible and more educational organization than the old CCC. At least 20 per cent of the time of its members would be devoted to educational activities, he said.

Work Resumed On University Medical Center

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Work at the West Virginia University Medical Center resumed Tuesday as four striking painters removed pickets pending the outcome of negotiations with a subcontractor over the price of work done with spray or roller.

The painters put up picket lines Saturday to back up demands for a 25 cent an hour wage increase, raising their pay to $3.50 an hour. Pickets kept some 225 employes of other subcontractors off their jobs.

Harry Howell, business agent for the painters' local, said agreement had been reached "on all points except one." He did not indicate which point still had to be settled with the Edward W. Minte Co., Washington, D. C., the subcontractor involved.

The painters walked out after the Washington firm allegedly returned to the old wages after paying new wage rates which went into effect April 1.

W.Va. Turnpike Revenues Up

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— West Virginia turnpike revenues for the first four months of the year climbed to $1,066,674, a new high for the four-month period, General Manager W. E. Stahl reported Tuesday.

The increase was attributed mainly to heavier truck traffic, yielding $96,000 more than the similar four-month period in 1958.

Tolls during the January - April period in 1958 totaled $950,976, Stahl said. Total collections last month were $21,875 above the April record of $266,128 set last year.

The daily average for the four-month period this year was $8,888, compared to $7,924 a year ago, Stahl said. Officials estimated revenue must average $15,000 a day before the Charleston - to-Princeton superhighway can meet operating and bond expenses.

W.Va. Supreme Court Decides In Ballot Case

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Charles A. Schenerlein — a candidate for a seat on the Wheeling City Council — apparently will have his name on the ballot next month as a result of Tuesday's action by the State Supreme Court.

The Ohio County Circuit Court had ruled Schenerlein ineligible but the high court, in a 3-2 vote, reversed that decision.

The high court issued only an order directing the lower court to reverse its finding. An opinion giving reasons for the finding, to be written by Judge Thornton G. Berry, will be filed later. Judges Chauncey Browning and Harlan M. Calhoun dissented and will file a minority opinion later.

Wheeling attorneys had told the circuit and high court that Schenerlien had not expressed sufficient "intent" to maintain a legal residence in Wheeling.

Schenerlien lives at Brown's Run, near Wheeling, but contended he retained his voting residence in the city's 4th ward and was eligible to seek election to council.

New Machine Is Shown At Mining Congress Meet

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) —A new machine that can produce 400 tons of coal per shift with only an operator and a loader was explained to the American Mining Congress Tuesday by J. W. Heimaster, bore mining department official for Union Carbide Co., South Charleston, W.Va.

Heimaster said the recently-developed machine is designed to bore an oval 38 inches high and 116 inches wide to a depth of 1,000 feet. The machine is now so reliable it can withstand continuous operation, he said.

One of the advantages of the machine, he said, is the elimination of roof supports because no men work underground. In addition, drainage is not necessary because the machine is sufficiently waterproof to work through any water that may be in a borehole.

William O. Barnard Jr., general superintendent, Christopher Coal Co., Morgantown, W. Va., analyzed coal mine fires in the Pittsburgh seam in northern West Virginia for the past 10 years. He showed the fires were caused by electrical short circuits on equipment, falls on power wires, belt fires, gob lines or outcrop fires and haulage fires.

Theft Ring Member Jailed

PRINCETON, W. Va. (AP) — Justice moved swiftly in Mercer County Criminal Court here Tuesday as Earl Hess was sentenced on three housebreaking charges arising out of alleged activity with an interstate theft ring.

Hess, 45, of Bluefield, had been captured in Maryland after several months as a fugitive and was returned to Princeton only this morning.

In a speedy court action, Hess pleaded guilty to all three charges and received three 1-10 year sentences in a special appearance before Judge Walter V. Ross.

Hess was the 13th of 14 persons arrested in a police roundup of persons said to have been connected with the $100,000-a-year theft ring broken last January by police in Bluefield. Stolen goods were shuttled about Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, authorities said.

Senator Favors Corps For Boys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The establishment of a Youth Conservation Corps would provide useful jobs and educational opportunities for thousands of "frustratingly idle" young people in the nation, Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.) told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday.

The measure, introduced by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and cosponsored by Byrd and Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), would be similar to the old Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC).

"I earnestly support the establishment of a Youth Conservation Corps for the purpose of conserving the natural and human resources of our country," Byrd told the committee.

The senator said the proposal would establish a smaller, more flexible and more educational organization than the old CCC. At least 20 per cent of the time of its members would be devoted to educational activities, he said.

Work Resumed On University Medical Center

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Work at the West Virginia University Medical Center resumed Tuesday as four striking painters removed pickets pending the outcome of negotiations with a subcontractor over the price of work done with spray or roller.

The painters put up picket lines Saturday to back up demands for a 25 cent an hour wage increase, raising their pay to $3.50 an hour. Pickets kept some 225 employes of other subcontractors off their jobs.

Harry Howell, business agent for the painters' local, said agreement had been reached "on all points except one." He did not indicate which point still had to be settled with the Edward W. Minte Co., Washington, D. C., the subcontractor involved.

W.Va. Turnpike Revenues Up

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— West Virginia turnpike revenues for the first four months of the year climbed to $1,066,674, a new high for the four-month period, General Manager W. E. Stahl reported Tuesday.

The increase was attributed mainly to heavier truck traffic, yielding $96,000 more than the similar four-month period in 1958.

Tolls during the January - April period in 1958 totaled $950,976, Stahl said. Total collections last month were $21,875 above the April record of $266,128 set last year.

"The outlook is good for continued improvement in the turnpike's financial picture," Stahl said. "However, we may be some time reaching the break - even point."

The daily average for the four-month period this year was $8,888, compared to $7,924 a year ago, Stahl said. Officials estimated revenue must average $15,000 a day before the Charleston - to-Princeton superhighway can meet operating and bond expenses.

W.Va. Supreme Court Decides In Ballot Case

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Charles A. Schenerlein — a candidate for a seat on the Wheeling City Council — apparently will have his name on the ballot next month as a result of Tuesday's action by the State Supreme Court.

The Ohio County Circuit Court had ruled Schenerlein ineligible but the high court, in a 3-2 vote, reversed that decision.

The high court issued only an order directing the lower court to reverse its finding. An opinion giving reasons for the finding, to be written by Judge Thornton G. Berry, will be filed later. Judges Chauncey Browning and Harlan M. Calhoun dissented and will file a minority opinion later.

Wheeling attorneys had told the circuit and high court that Schenerlien had not expressed sufficient "intent" to maintain a legal residence in Wheeling.

Schenerlien lives at Brown's Run, near Wheeling, but contended he retained his voting residence in the city's 4th ward and was eligible to seek election to council.

Gains By Chemicals, Rails Sustain Market Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strength in chemical issues, rails and numerous specialties sustained the stock market advance in the face of general irregularity.

Gains of 5½ points in DuPont, 2⅛ Union Carbide and 1¾ in Allied Chemical—along with a rise of nearly 2 points in Chrysler Corp.—served to lift the industrial average substantially despite easiness noted in many sectors of the industrial list.

Rails came to the fore late in the day, attracting attention when favorable earnings reports for Pennsylvania Railroad and Missouri Pacific appeared in the day's news.

The rails showed gains running past 3 points in Western Pacific, around a point to 2 in Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Illinois Central, New York Central and Northern Pacific. Pennsylvania improved ¾ to 17⅜ and Missouri Pacific a point to 48¼.

Profit - taking cut sharply at some of the recent favorites such as Thiokol Chemical, off 5 on the day; Magnavox, Beckman Instruments, down 2 to more than 3 points in the electronics; Northrop, off 2⅛ and Martin Co., down 1¾ in the aircrafts.

Philadelphia & Reading lost another 8¾ points, on top of Monday's 8½, reflecting realizing after announcement of the company's plans to form a new chemical company jointly with General Dynamics. The latter fell 1½.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat closed strong, and other grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was up ¾ to 1¼; corn off ⅜ to up ¼; oats up ⅛; new oats unchanged to up ¼; rye off ⅝ to up 1½; soybeans unchanged to off 1¼, and lard unchanged to up 10 points.

May wheat rallied after dropping to a new low for the season at the opening. Longs liquidated May at the outset, and shorts covered. The price soon fell back to near yesterday's close and rose again at the close. New crop contracts were firm after an easy start. The government's winter wheat crop estimate did not show much change from last month.

Corn was mixed after a firm opening. Early trade was active, with an elevator house a good buyer of nearby contracts. July met good commission house buying. May was liquidated by local traders. Receipts were small and the cash market was firm. Commodity Credit Corporation export acceptances on subsidy bids totaled 987,000 bushels. Some export sales were reported.

Oats were quiet and steady. Cash grain houses were moderate buyers of May, and exporters were reported to have bought some July. Soybeans were mostly higher on a few stop-loss orders and demand for cash beans. May advanced to a new high since last September under buying by shorts and commission houses. A prominent local trader bought July, which processors sold. Oils were higher, and meals were easier.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

North, captivated by some carnival spirit, whooped it up in the bidding of today's hand, and induced his partner to contract for a grand slam on a somewhat tenuous holding. However, skilful handling of the cards by declarer brought a happy ending to the story.

The first three bids were routine but North's jump to six hearts was too aggressive. To justify such vigorous action, North should have had either the king of spades or diamonds. In the circumstances, South found the grand slam bid irresistible.

West opened the five of hearts and declarer apparently had a choice of going to work on the spades or the diamonds. He chose the former as offering the better chance. The ace of spades was cashed and a

Gains By Chemicals, Rails Sustain Market Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strength in chemical issues, rails and numerous specialties sustained the stock market advance in the face of general irregularity.

Gains of 5½ points in DuPont, 2⅛ Union Carbide and 1¾ in Allied Chemical—along with a rise of nearly 2 points in Chrysler Corp.—served to lift the industrial average substantially despite easiness noted in many sectors of the industrial list.

Rails came to the fore late in the day, attracting attention when favorable earnings reports for Pennsylvania Railroad and Missouri Pacific appeared in the day's news.

The rails showed gains running past 3 points in Western Pacific, around a point to 2 in Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Illinois Central, New York Central and Northern Pacific. Pennsylvania improved ¾ to 17¾ and Missouri Pacific a point to 48¼.

Profit - taking cut sharply at some of the recent favorites such as Thiokol Chemical, off 5 on the day; Magnavox, Beckman Instruments, down 2 to more than 3 points in the electronics; Northrop, off 2⅛ and Martin Co., down 1¾ in the aircrafts.

Philadelphia & Reading lost another 8¾ points, on top of Monday's 8½, reflecting realizing after announcement of the company's plans to form a new chemical company jointly with General Dynamics. The latter fell 1½.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat closed strong, and other grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was up ¾ to 1¼; corn off ⅜ to up ¼; oats up ⅛; new oats unchanged to up ¼; rye off ¾ to up 1½; soybeans unchanged to off 1¼, and lard unchanged to up 10 points.

May wheat rallied after dropping to a new low for the season at the opening. Longs liquidated May at the outset, and shorts covered. The price soon fell back to near yesterday's close and rose again at the close. New crop contracts were firm after an easy start. The government's winter wheat crop estimate did not show much change from last month.

Corn was mixed after a firm opening. Early trade was active, with an elevator house a good buyer of nearby contracts. July met good commission house buying. May was liquidated by local traders. Receipts were small and the cash market was firm. Commodity Credit Corporation export acceptances on subsidy bids totaled 987,000 bushels. Some export sales were reported.

Oats were quiet and steady. Cash grain houses were moderate buyers of May, and exporters were reported to have bought some July. Soybeans were mostly higher on a few stop-loss orders and demand for cash beans. May advanced to a new high since last September under buying by shorts and commission houses. A prominent local trader bought July, which processors sold. Oils were higher, and meals were easier.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

North, captivated by some carnival spirit, whooped it up in the bidding of today's hand, and induced his partner to contract for a grand slam on a somewhat tenuous holding. However, skilful handling of the cards by declarer brought a happy ending to the story.

The first three bids were routine but North's jump to six hearts was too aggressive. To justify such vigorous action, North should have had either the king of spades or diamonds. In the circumstances, South found the grand slam bid irresistible.

Doctor Guilty Of Narcotics Law Violation

Dr. Flick's Lawyers To Seek New Trial

Dr. William A. Flick, Keyser physician who was accused of violating the law governing the control of narcotics, yesterday was found guilty by a Mineral County jury in Keyser, W. Va.

Defense attorneys immediately petitioned the court for a new trial and made a motion for an arrested judgment, which in effect would bring a new trial.

The two-day trial came to a climax yesterday afternoon when the case went to the jury about 1:30 p.m. The jury of 11 men and one woman deliberated nearly 1½ hours before returning the guilty verdict about 3 p.m.

Judge Ernest A. See said hearings on the defense motions will be heard within the next 10 days.

Pollock Testifies

Pollock, serving a term in West Virginia State Penitentiary at Moundsville for violations of narcotics laws, was returned to Keyser and testified Monday, the opening day for the trial.

Pollock told the court and jury he has been a drug addict since 1933, and added that Dr. Flick had been prescribing drugs for him.

Dr. Flick, who took the stand in his own defense Monday, admitted writing prescriptions for Pollock but denied he knew the man was a drug addict.

Prosecuting Attorney Donald C. Hott introduced 324 prescriptions which the state said had been issued to Pollock by Dr. Flick in the past 16 months. The prosecutor stated these prescriptions were for 9,800 quarter-grain morphine tablets and 3,800 1/16-grain dilaudid pills.

Dr. Flick previously was indicted twice for writing prescriptions for Pollock, but Judge See quashed the indictments on technical grounds that they did not state Dr. Flick was not acting in good faith when he wrote them.

Eight Disqualified

The current indictment was for writing one prescription on October 10, 1958, for 40 tablets of 1/16 grain of dilaudid.

Conviction carries a prison term of two to five years and a $1,000 fine.

Eight prospective jurors disqualified themselves Monday as having previously formed or expressed an opinion in the case before the panel of 20 jurors was completed.

The state rested its case after testimony on Monday and yesterday was devoted to closing arguments by both sides.

Thomas Yokum Found Guilty In Shooting

Jury Deliberates Only 20 Minutes

A Pendleton County, W. Va., jury yesterday found Thomas Yokum Jr., 33, of Mill Creek, guilty of attempted murder in the first degree for shooting at a West Virginia state policeman last April 12.

The jury received the case at 5 p. m. and deliberated only 20 minutes before returning the verdict against the Randolph County man after hearing the day-long trial at Franklin.

Court officials said the defendant took the stand and denied attempting to shoot at Trooper B. H. Swartz. He said the state policeman fired twice at him and his own shotgun "just went off."

Arrested In Gun Battle

Trooper Swartz, State Police Cpl. F. W. Armstrong and Deputy Sheriff Estel Ruddle testified that Yokum shot at them when they attempted to arrest him on a warrant sworn out for assault and battery by the man's uncle, Ralph Yokum, Mouth of Seneca.

The policemen said Yokum fired at the officers with a shotgun when they neared the residence of the uncle, with whom the defendant had been living for the past several months.

Trooper Swartz took the stand and told the jury of 11 men and one woman that Yokum fired at him and his companions with the shotgun and that he shot at the defendant twice with his service revolver, missing both times.

Yokum shot at him again, the trooper testified, as he rolled along the ground to escape being hit. Then Cpl. Armstrong shot the man in the legs with a shotgun, he said.

The 33-year-old man was wounded in both legs and was a patient at Grant County Memorial Hospital in Petersburg until he was released last Thursday and brought to the county jail at Franklin.

Faces Second Charge

Prosecuting Attorney George I. Sponaugle said Yokum still faces a similar charge for shooting at Cpl. Armstrong. He said, however, that the state will drop the lesser assault charges brought against the defendant by his uncle.

Judge H. G. Muntzing presided and set Thursday at 10 a. m. as the date for sentencing Yokum. The defendant faces a 1 to 5 year term in the shooting.

Attorneys for Yokum were William McCoy Jr. of Franklin and Paul Geary of Petersburg.

Yokum was indicted April 21 by the Pendleton County grand jury.

John M. Brady, 18, Rockville, and George Tolson, 16, of Baltimore, escaped from a boys' work detail in the Barton area yesterday morning and are still missing, State Police said. The two were from the State Forestry Camp at Lonaconing.

Two other teen-agers escaped Monday evening from the Lonaconing camp and are still missing. Police identified them as Nathan B. Ebert, 17, Baltimore, and Stephen Smith, 16, of Hillcrest, Md.

Thomas Yokum Found Guilty In Shooting

Jury Deliberates Only 20 Minutes

A Pendleton County, W. Va., jury yesterday found Thomas Yokum Jr., 33, of Mill Creek, guilty of attempted murder in the first degree for shooting at a West Virginia state policeman last April 12.

The jury received the case at 5 p. m. and deliberated only 20 minutes before returning the verdict against the Randolph County man after hearing the day-long trial at Franklin.

Court officials said the defendant took the stand and denied attempting to shoot at Trooper B. H. Swartz. He said the state policeman fired twice at him and his own shotgun "just went off."

Arrested In Gun Battle

Trooper Swartz, State Police Cpl. F. W. Armstrong and Deputy Sheriff Estel Ruddle testified that Yokum shot at them when they attempted to arrest him on a warrant sworn out for assault and battery by the man's uncle, Ralph Yokum, Mouth of Seneca.

The policemen said Yokum fired at the officers with a shotgun when they neared the residence of the uncle, with whom the defendant had been living for the past several months.

Trooper Swartz took the stand and told the jury of 11 men and one woman that Yokum fired at him and his companions with the shotgun and that he shot at the defendant twice with his service revolver, missing both times.

Yokum shot at him again, the trooper testified, as he rolled along the ground to escape being hit. Then Cpl. Armstrong shot the man in the legs with a shotgun, he said.

The 33-year-old man was wounded in both legs and was a patient at Grant County Memorial Hospital in Petersburg until he was released last Thursday and brought to the county jail at Franklin.

Faces Second Charge

Prosecuting Attorney George I. Sponaugle said Yokum still faces a similar charge for shooting at Cpl. Armstrong. He said, however, that the state will drop the lesser assault charges brought against the defendant by his uncle.

Judge H. G. Muntzing presided and set Thursday at 10 a. m. as the date for sentencing Yokum. The defendant faces a 1 to 5 year term in the shooting.

Attorneys for Yokum were William McCoy Jr. of Franklin and Paul Geary of Petersburg.

Yokum was indicted April 21 by the Pendleton County grand jury.
